$500 PBA Grant Enables Students In Middle School to Hear Philharmonic

Sgt. Thomas Procaccino

Stern, steel eye, hard jaw you'd better not test with your fist, sergeant's stripes strong against police blues.

"It'll be an all-Tschaikowsky program," he says. "Last year, it was Beethoven. My wife and I can't wait. It's wonderful, a terribly enriching thing."

Sgt. Thomas Procaccino of the Borough Police, suggested last year to fellow officers who belong to the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association – the PBA – that they donate $500 to the Middle School so that kids in orchestra, band and choruses, could go to New York to hear the Philharmonic.

"I guess you could say a lot of them in the PBA didn't know Bartok from Beethoven, but they understood the need for something different from the usual macho stuff. There's nothing sissy about going to the Philharmonic."

So last year, eighth-graders who perform in Middle School music organizations, went into New York and heard Beethoven. This year, on Thursday, June 11, they will travel by school bus to a regular evening performance of the New York Philharmonic, courtesy PBA.

The PBA has, for many years, held classes in Hunters' Safety – "how to handle a fire-arm correctly" – and has sponsored Little League, soccer, and football teams.

But Sgt. Procaccino felt that the PBA wasn't reaching a lot of kids. What about boys who don't go in for sports? What, for goodness' sake, about girls?

Sgt. Procaccino talked with Joachim Parrella, of the Middle School's music department. Mr. Parrella's gratitude to the imagination of the PBA and the willingness of its members "to break new ground," in Sgt. Procaccino's words, is overflowing and boundless.

The 80 student concert-goers are in the school's two choirs, orchestra and band. Teachers are chaperones.

The concert is part of a series given after the regular Philharmonic subscription series. This year, the theme is "The Romantic Era," and students will hear Andrew Davis conduct Tschaikowsky's Fourth Symphony; "Voyevode," Opus 78, and the Piano Concerto No. 1 with Bella Davidovich as soloist.

"It is not a children's concert," Sgt Procaccino emphasizes. "The youngsters are not condescended to. They are expected to dress like an adult attending a New York concert, and they do."

Then he smiles.

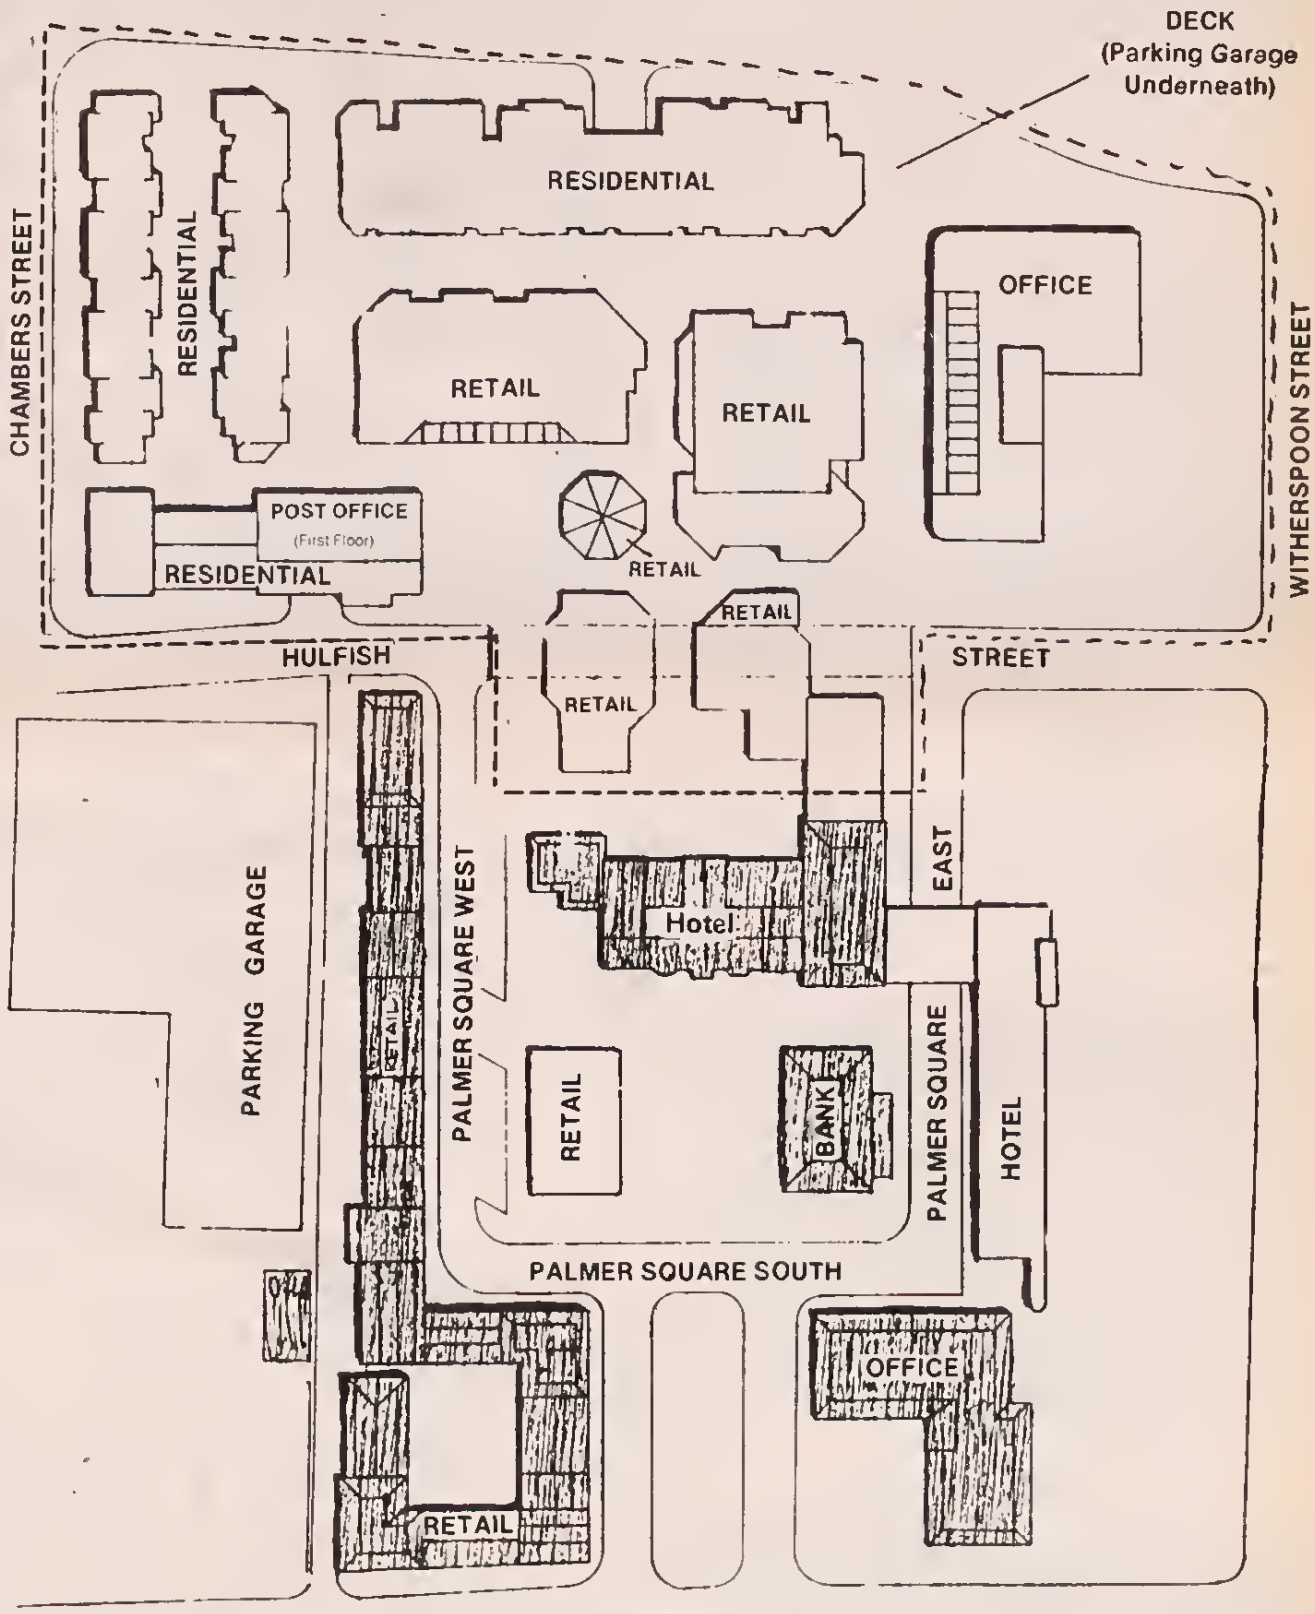
Palmer Square Site Plan Made Public; Ideas Still Sought from Constituents



MEET PALMER SQUARE: This is the plan prepared by architect Do H. Chung for Collins Development Corporation. Shaded areas show buildings that already exist. The heavy dotted line around the new part of the Square shows where the new deck would be. Parking would be underneath the deck.

Palmer Square, as it is and as developers hope it will be, has been shown in concept to many groups around town, and a drawing of its site plan was released to the public this week.

Whether Collins Development will make it to the Environmental Design Review Committee's May 11 meeting, is still not known, but the Square's new owners say they have every expectation of being there.

Meanwhile, Collins' vice-president James B. Harvie III continues to talk to constituents of the Square, conferring with them and getting their ideas.

Last Thursday, he talked informally with Borough Council about Tiger Park, the little square on Nassau that is home to the tiger statue. He has already been in touch with garden clubs about Tiger Park.

"We have no intention of touching any of the trees," he began.

The little park has four split-leaf Japanese maples and four large maples. Mr. Harvie knows how Princeton feels about trees.

He was talking to Council because the Borough owns Tiger Park. The municipality also owns the land in front of the post office, including the walkway in front of the Nassau Inn, making a kind of T-shaped plot.

Collins wants to re-do this area, although Mr. Harvie hasn't said exactly what changes would be made. They do want to remove the hedge that now borders Tiger Park — a hedge originally planted to keep people from criss-crossing the small area — and plant flowers according to season.

Who Will Have Authority?

What interests the Borough is Collins' expressed desire to do all the work — year-round maintenance, planting and so on. The Borough would continue to hold title to the land.

The question on Thursday night: what agency will authorize Collins to go ahead? At what point would the Sqoare's owner need Council approval? Should Council retain jorisdiction, in effect being required to determine the color of this year's petunias?

Following the recommendation of Borough engineer George Olexa, Council agreed that it was an administrative matter, and that someone within the Borough administration should be assigned to work with Collins. If the developers planned something major — a fountain, perhaps — then Council could he consulted.

Plans on Page One show that Hulfish will continue to be a throogh street, although covered in part by the extended deck. Although entrance-exists for the underground garage have not yet been firmly set, architect Do Chung shows one entrance at the foot of Palmer Square West and another at the foot of Palmer Square East. A third would also be provided.

The new building across from the present post office, would he a one-story gloss retail space. A new post office is shown on the first floor of the building over the Palmer Square West entrance to the garage.

The Nassao Inn addition, on Palmer Square East, is coonected to the present hotel by a structure over the street.

Free Square Parking

You can park, free, in the Palmer Square North parking lot every Saturday morning between now and the end of spring — June 21.

James B. Harvie III, vice-president of Collins Development, owners of the Square, said the suggestion for the free parking came from Sam Kind, owner of LaVake's.

We hope this will encourage Princetonians and others to shop in Palmer Square and downtown Princeton on Saturdays," Mr. Harvie said.

The lot in question used to be known as the Playhouse lot. It encompasses the entire area north of Hulfish, except the lot at the far west which is entered by a gate. The area where the Playhouse used to stand has heen resurfaced to expand the parking area.

There are about 350 spaces in the Palmer Square North lot.

Trihute to Don Stuart.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

You have a very great deal to live up to and for that purpose you have also a formidable legacy of strength and style from your late extraordinary founder.

Don Stuart was one of my folk heroes — a man of quiet decency — defender of everybody's right to he heard — and not a man to be crossed.

Happily for all of us, his enriching contribution to our community survives him in good hands as a lasting reminder of how fortunate we all were to have him for so long in our midst.

Ghost of Christmas.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I am appalled by the cover of the Princeton "Fact Book", 1981 ("Community Pride Publication"): I see on it a bearded girl, age 12, attired like an undersized Santa Lucia. This epitome of bad taste could also be recognized as a male dwarf in a woman's nighty (fabric — shiny rayon).

On page 5 of the booklet the reader is told that this hermaphroditic figure "promises to become a McCarter favorite," and is "one of the many reasons Princeton is such an attractive place to live." May I respectfully disagree.

Eight Candidates Meet Deadline to Run for Office in Princeton

Josie Hall (R)

Gail Firestone (R)

David Kleln (D)

Alan Medvin (D)

Eight candidates, sometimes called "hopefuls" in stories about politics, filed last week for the privilege of running for office in Princeton.

There will be no primary contests at the local level on Primary Day, June 2. In fact, the 4 p.m. deadline last Thursday.

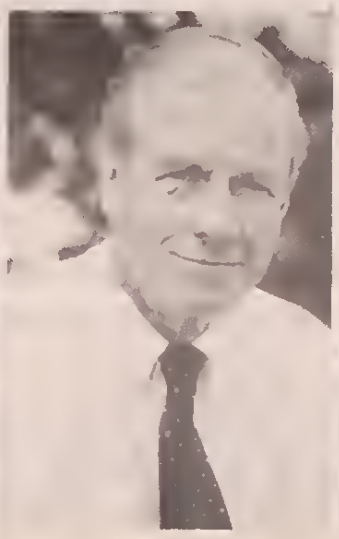
There will be an unfamiliar contest next fall. In the Township, Natalie Cruickshank will be running for Township clerk on the Republican ticket against Democrat Ginger Lennon.

Mrs. Cruickshank has been appointed to the post by Township Commiteee and will begin serving as Acting Clerk next Monday. Under present state law, however, she must run for the office and be elected to the three-year term.

Mitzi Fiumenero has been serving as Acting Clerk since Administrator Joseph R. Nini relinquished his clerk's duties January 1. Mrs. Fiumenero will now go back to her former title, Deputy Clerk.

In the Borough, Democratic running-mates will be incumbent Richard Macgill, 131 Westcott Road, running for his second term, and Peter Bearse, 110 Leigh Avenue, running for his first.

Peter Bearse (D)



Richard Macgill (D)

Gary Grover (R)

Marjorie Boyce (R)

They will be opposed by Republicans Gary Grover, 16 Chestnut, and Marjorie Boyce, 22 Cameron Court. Mr. Grover ran unsuccessfully for Council two years ago.

Township candidates will be incumbent Josie Hall, Republican, running for a third term, joined by Gail Firestone. Mrs. Hall's address is 1092 The Great Road. Mrs. Firestone lives at 747 Prospect.

Democratic candidates in the Township will be David Klein, 6 Greenhouse Drive, and Alan Medvin, 165 Bertrand Drive.

Mr. Macgill is a retired banker and Mr. Bearse is an economist. Mr. Grover, a painting contractor, is also a partner in his family's taxi business. He is Republican Committeman in District Four. Mrs. Boyce, Committeewoman in District Three, was assistant campaign manager last fall for Borough Republicans.

Township candidate Josie Hall is now serving as mayor of the municipality. In Princeton's form of township government, mayors are not elected, as such; instead, the senior member of the majority party on Committee becomes mayor.

Mrs. Firestone, who is associated with her husband's real estate business, formerly served on the school board.

David Klein is executive director of the American Council on Germany. Mr. Medvin, the son of former Borough Council member Leona Medvin and the late Murray Medvin, also a Borough Council member, is a lawyer.

OR 6 ON ETTL FARM?

Committee Opposed. Township Committee is expected to introduce an ordinance designating the Ettl Farm property for office-research use at its meeting this Wednesday at 8 in the Valley Road Building Meeting Room.

However, Committee members have gone on record as being opposed to this particular provision of the Master Plan and are expected to defeat the ordinance, either at introduction or at the public hearing. Mayor Josie Hall has voiced her concern for the additional burden of traffic that OR 6, as the proposed zone would be called, would put on Rosedale Road, which already carries a substantial volume of traffic from Educational Testing Service and Western Electric.

Committee is expected to spend most of the extra meeting this Wednesday in a work session discussing the proposed cluster ordinance that is also a part of implementing Master Plan recommendations.

TOWNSHIP MAN CHARGED

With Assaulting Ex-Wife. Edward A. McEwen 3d, 32, has been charged by police with the aggravated sexual assault of his former wife and with burglary.

According to police, McEwen, of 18 Greenbrier Row, allegedly entered his former wife's home in the northeast section of the Township between 1:30 and 8:30 in the morning and sexually assaulted her.

He was arrested two days later at his home and arraigned the same day before Township Judge Sydney Souter and his case was forwarded to the Mercer County Prosecutor's Office. He was later released in $500 bail by Mercer County Judge Jonathan Fox to await action by a Mercer County Grand Jury.

His former wife, who notified police, signed the complaint against McEwen. Det. Frank Boccanfuso and Ptl. Howard Sweeney are conducting the police investigation.

NEW, FOR CBD

Ordinance Introduced. The latest in the Borough's series of new zoning ordinances for the Central Business District was introduced Thursday night and public hearing scheduled for May 12.

Under this ordinance, a developer — and Collins Development's plans for Palmer Square are the most immediate consideration — is allowed to apply the joint-occupancy regulations to a lot where each building isn't necessarily joint-occupancy, but the overall combination is.

For example, an office building and a residential building, separate from each other, could be counted as joint-occupancy because they are on the same lot, even though neither one by itself is joint-occupancy; that is, commercial-residential.

Under another ordinance recently passed, the floor-area ratio for a non-residential building remains at 1.5 But a developer is allowed to increase that density to 2.5 in the residential part of the building. This is the formula that can be applied under the ordinance introduced last week.

In addition, the new ordinance eases the requirements for light and air between non-residential buildings.

LOTS OF ACTION

But No Fire. Township police and firemen responded to three fire calls last week but in each there was no damage.

At 2:31 Saturday afternoon, police responded to a call from a Snowden Lane home, but when it was discovered that smoke in the house was due to an oil burner back-up, the alarm was cancelled.

Later, at 7:04 p.m., Ptl. David Funk and two fire units responded to a fire call at the U-Wash in the Princeton Shopping Center. Someone, police said, had set off a smoke bomb in the premises. There was no fire.

Sunday afternoon at 3:42, police and one piece of fire apparatus responded to a brush fire off Red Hill Road. Again, police report no apparent damage.

TWO STEAKS TO GO

Man Is Charged. Darrell C. Newlin, 24, of 230 Birch Avenue, was charged with shoplifting last week, after he allegedly tried to leave the Acme Market in the Princeton Shopping Center with two rib eye steaks valued at $10.40. He was later released and faces a May 5 court hearing.

He was arrested by Ptl. Henn Kamioski.

Rain has been on the minds of weather forecasters this week, and it has to keep falling either day or night to keep those water restrictions off.

It's part of the forecast for the next three days. Wednesday, Thursday and Friday morning, but it may not materialize on all three. Count on plenty of clouds and warmer weather, however, and a return to mostly sunny skies by the weekend.

TAKE YOUR NEWSPAPERS ANY TIME, ANY DAY: A 45-foot trailer is now behind the Valley Road building, and will be there permanently, so you can take newspapers for The Friends of Princeton High Athletics any time you like, without waiting for a paper drive. Mercer Road near Quaker Road.

The driver, William E. Wells, 41, sustained lacerations of the face when his car struck a tree but he refused medical attention. His 1981 sedan had to be towed from the scene. Ptl. Mario Musso investigated.

RE-CYCLE ANY TIME

At Permanent Truck. If you've been saving newspapers for The Friends of Princeton High Athletics, you may now take your bundles any time, without waiting for a paper drive (although there will be one on Sunday, May 17 from 10 to 4 at Valley Road).

Assistant Princeton Fire Chief Raymond Wadsworth has arranged with a re-cycling plant to have a 45-foot trailer parked permanently in the rear of the Valley Road building. You may leave your papers at the trailer any time. It's a 24-hour-a-day, seven-day service.

When you take your bundled (or brown-bagged) papers to the trailer, drive in off Valley Road and continue to the rear of the building, exiting on Guyot behind Conte's.

Friends of PHS Athletics decided on the trailer because Mr. Wadsworth and former Fire Chief William Karch, who is in charge of facilities for the Princeton schools, worried about the danger of fire in homes where newspapers are stored for long periods between regular newspaper drives.

These drives will continue to be held from time to time. On May 17, there will be people at the trailer to unload your papers for you. For the elderly or disabled, there is pick-up service. Call Mr. Karch, 924-5600, ext. 222.

morning and discovered them missing at 1:10 in the afternoon.

Sheila M. Stuart, 20 Maple Lane, Pennington, reported the theft Saturday morning of her blue quilted purse from a sales table at a flea market in the Princeton Shopping Center.

The victim called police at 9:32 to report that a few minutes after setting up the table, she noticed her purse, which contained $10, a red wallet, check book and credit cards, was missing.

The purse, valued at $65, was recovered the next day in a shopping cart by an employee of the Acme Market in the shopping center. Everything was intact except for the money and a few cosmetic items.

Early in the week, a resident in the Stuart-Great Road area told police that someone had stolen his mailbox during the night. Its damaged wooden support post was left at the scene.

In the Borough, someone walked into Verbeyst Cleaners on Tulane Street last week and removed $22 in change from an open safe, and between 10:30 and noon, someone took a Princeton Bank and Trust envelope containing $30 from a locker in the women's locker room at the YWCA.

Four IBM Selectric typewriter elements valued at $170 were stolen last week from an unlocked office in Frick Lab on the university campus, while two front tires and rims were removed from a car parked in a university lot off Prospect Avenue. The victim, a Township resident, reported that the car's registration and insurance card were also missing.

An unlocked, five-speed bicycle was stolen Friday night while it was parked in front of Victor's Pizzeria on Nassau Street. The owner valued it at $30.

THAT'S MY KNAPSACK!

Princeton Man Charged. Kim Craig, 27, 240 John Street, has been charged by Township police with receiving stolen property, in connection with a series of thefts on the Princeton University campus.

Currently free on $25 bail, Craig was arrested Thursday evening by proctor George Kucher after he had been observed and identified in a 1942 Hall rest room, wearing a knapsack valued at $70 which had allegedly been stolen earlier that evening from a student's coat room in Stevenson Hall, 83 Prospect Avenue.

The victim told Borough police that he had returned to 1942 Hall when he noticed the suspect carrying his knapsack.

Earlier in the evening, Borough police had investigated thefts from the coat room involving four student victims. One, police said, lost a white knapsack containing a $136 calculator; a second had a $136 calculator taken from his briefcase; a third lost a blue knapsack containing assorted textbooks and a calculator valued at $60, while a fourth reported the loss of a briefcase containing books and papers.

The previous day, another student had reported the theft of his knapsack containing books and a check book with a combined value of $45 from Stevenson Hall.

Following his apprehension after a chase in 1942 Hall, Craig was processed by Borough police and then turned over to Township police. Said Borough Capt. Theodore Lewis, "There are more suspects in the case."

MAY CLOSE GARDEN

If Theatre Doesn't Comply. If the Sameric theatre chain does not submit to the Borough proper certifications relating to approval of a fire door and fire-resistant draperies, the Garden may be closed Friday, May 8. The closing would be under the Borough's fire code.

PCH Hearing Postponed

The presentation of Princeton Community Housing, Inc. to the Borough Zoning Board has been re-scheduled for the board's regular meeting on Thursday, May 28.

PCH did appear before the board last Thursday, but only five of the board members eligible to hear the case were present. Since PCH must have five "yes" votes to obtain the waiver of parking requirements it is asking for its 89-unit apartment building, it decided not to take the chance.

Lawyers for the non-profit organization asked for a date when six members could be present; however, because everyone has a full schedule, no time could be found for a special meeting.

Three Zoning Board members are disqualified because of various kinds of association with PCH.

353 families currently have their home burglar or fire alarm systems monitored by Princeton Township Police through equipment at the Police Station owned by a company in Somerville.

On June 1 the Township Police will STOP monitoring the alarms.

The Somerville company wants to change all 353 resident alarm systems from the "dedicated line system" to a "telephone dialer" at a cost of $200 each, which would be monitored in North Jersey.

There is no need to downgrade the system in your home OR spend $200. The Princeton Telephone Answering Service can monitor the same system that you have now. We can duplicate the monitoring service that you have with the Princeton Township Police, as opposed to a firm in North Jersey. We are familiar with Princeton Streets and Princeton Boundaries. We know Princeton.

It is not necessary to change the monitoring system at your home. It is not necessary to have your system monitored out of town. The Princeton Telephone Answering service has been monitoring alarm systems since 1958, 24 hours a day, on Nassau Street in Princeton.

Please get in touch with us -- before you make a decision that would obsolete your financial investment in your home. Call Linda at 924-2040.

get the proper certifications to the Borough. Plans for the remodeled theatre were approved by the state, but the Borough wants to make sure the approved materials were the ones that were actually used.

The closing would be temporary until any required adjustments were made.

APARTMENTS ENTERED

On Spring Street. Three Spring Street apartments were entered last week, two on the same day between 9 in the morning and 2:50 in the afternoon. Police report that doors to the apartments had been pried open.

There were two victims from one apartment. One lost two 35mm cameras valued at $250 and $150; the second lost a 35mm camera, two high school rings, a red enamel jewelry box and six pair of earrings with a combined value of $550.

A diamond engagement ring, two sterling silver rings, valued at $10 and $7, and a third silver ring were removed from the second apartment.

The next day, another apartment was entered in the same building. Police said that they do not know how the intruder got inside.

The victim lost a 14K gold wristwatch with eight diamonds valued at $600. Also, a gold pocket watch, a gold ring with a blue sapphire and two diamond chips and a gold ring with a black stone (combined value $420) and a wedding band.

A Witherspoon Street apartment, which Borough police believe was unlocked, was entered last week between 1:30 a.m. and 2:30 in the afternoon.

Missing are an 18-inch gold chain, a 14K gold necklace, gold cross and a tan shirt. Police have received no value for the items.

MORE DRIVERS CHARGED

By Princeton Police. Princeton police arrested a number of drivers again last week and charged them with various offenses.

Four were charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol. Robert R. Doherty, 26, of Solebury, Pa., was stopped by Ptl. Mark Emman and Ptl. Anthony Gaylord at 2:28 Friday morning, after the officers observed him driving in an erratic manner on Valley Road. Mr. Doherty, who was also charged with operating while his license was suspended, was released in $25 bail, pending his court appearance May 5.

Mario A. Bruno, 20, 17 Leigh Avenue, was stopped at 3:07 Saturday morning by Ptl. Randy Sutton and Ptl. Michael Taylor, who reported that he was weaving his motorcycle on Witherspoon Street near Clay. He was charged with driving while under the influence, driving without a helmet and careless driving.

David W. Ryan, 38, of Bayonne was stopped by the same two officers in the middle of Witherspoon Street near Franklin at 3:46 a.m. the previous day. After an investigation, he was charged with drunk driving. A drunk driving summons was also issued to Kim Tyler, 27, 145 Linden Lane, after he struck a parked car at Houghton near Walnut Lane at 8:40 Saturday evening.

A Skillman resident, Ted M. Rogers, 18, 171 Montgomery Road, was charged with possession of alcoholic beverages last week, after he was stopped shortly before midnight by Ptl. Sutton, who had observed him exiting the wrong way from a Tulane Street parking yard.

Police also charged two 17-year old occupants in the car. A Princeton resident was charged with possession of a loaded starter's pistol and a box of ammunition; the second youth, from Belle Mead, with possession of under 25 grams of marijuana.

Steven C. Stenard, 20, 57 Randall Road, has been charged with criminal mischief. According to the arresting officers — Emman and Gaylord — Mr. Stenard's car traveled over a Walnut Lane lawn early Friday morning, leaving 15 feet of damage.

Two Princeton juveniles inside the car were also charged: one, 16, with possession of alcohol and possession of less than 25 grams of marijuana; the second, 15, with possession of alcohol. Mr. Stenard was later released. The two juveniles were turned over to Township Juvenile Officer Jerry Offredo.

After police had stopped a car at Harrison Street near Franklin at 4 Saturday morning for a light out, they later charged the driver, Stephan D. Lidz, 18, 254 Ridgeview Road, with possession of cocaine, possession of less than five grams of hashish, possession of quaaludes and possession of less than 25 grams of marijuana.

At 12:22 Tuesday morning, Borough police stopped a car on Nassau Street near University Place and charged the driver, John Latimer, 49, of Trenton, with driving while his license was revoked and for no light on his license plate. His passenger, 18-year old Sharon Bell of Trenton, was charged with possession of less than 25 grams of marijuana.

A few hours later, at 3:51 a.m., police arrested Mark L. Rhodes, 24, 301 Nassau Street, on an outstanding motor vehicle warrant, and charged Priscilla A. Corbin, 21, 41 Patton Hall, Princeton University, with possession of less than 25 grams of marijuana.

The two were among a group of four that were playing basketball in a park off Aiken Avenue at that hour. Ptl. Sutton and Ptl. Taylor had responded to a call from a neighbor.

Madden Win Affirmed

A recount last Friday of the close school board election confirmed the victory of Dale Madden by seven votes.

Penelope Penningroth, defeated candidate, filed for a recount on April 16. It was she who lost to Dr. Madden by the seven votes.

In the April 7 election, Dr. Madden tallied 383 to Mrs. Penningroth's 376. High scorer was Harry Levine with 524. He and Dr. Madden will now assume the two Township seats available this year on the board. Skip Grossman and Joel Cooper were unopposed for the two Borough seats.

Paying $20 each for red light infractions were Robert R. Lockhart 3d, 30 VanWyck Drive, Princeton Junction; Jeffrey D. Klein, The Graduate College, and Julia Penick, 32 Elm Lane. Passing a school bus cost Linda A. Kandell, 343 Witherspoon Street, $45.

TITUSVILLE YOUTH DIES

When Moped Collides With Patrol Car. Jeffrey J. Fasulo, 15, of Creek Rim Drive, Titusville was killed last week when his moped collided with a police car.

A sophomore at Hopewell Valley Central High School in Pennington, Fasulo had just completed baschall practice last Tuesday, was heading west on Washington Crossing - Pennington Road on his moped, and was preparing to turn left onto Jacnbs Creek Road toward his home.

At the same time — 7:10 p.m. — Trooper Daniel Hurley, 25, was traveling west on Washington - Crossing Road en route to investigate a business burglar alarm in the area.

With its red lights flashing, the patrol car was passing a truck going in the same direction when it came upon the moped. Trooper Hurley attempted to swerve to the left but it was too late and the two vehicles collided.

Young Fasulo, the son of Dr. Anthony Fasulo, an orthopedic surgeon at Trenton's St. Francis Medical Center, was pronounced dead at the scene. No charges have been filed against Trooper Hurley, pending completion of the investigation which, officials said, could take several weeks.

Born in Trenton, the victim had lived in Titusville for the past 11 years. He is survived by his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Alexander Fasulo, two sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Hall of Hopewell and Miss Joan L. Fasulo at home; two brothers, David T. and Robert A., both at home; his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond DeNight of Etohwa, N.C.; his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Maria Fasulo of Solerno, Italy and many aunts, uncles and cousins.

Mass of the Christian Burial was celebrated Friday from St. James Church, Pennington. Burial was in Highland Cemetery, Hopewell.

RENT CONTROL?

Cawley Shrugs. "I'm skeptical about the need for rent control," Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley shrugged Monday, the day before a scheduled public discussion of recommendations made by the citizens rent-control study commission.

Council, divided in its views, may decide to keep rent control, the mayor predicted, adding that in his opinion, it didn't affect the market much.

Vacancy de-control, which would allow a landlord to negotiate the rent with a new tenant after the former tenant had moved out, "negates the purpose of rent control, which is to enable people to live here

Pools to Open!

Yes! The community swimming pools will be open this summer.

In fact, pools in the Community Park complex will open at noon on Saturday, May 23. They will be open that Memorial Day week-end — May 24 and 25 — and the next two week-ends — May 30 and 31 and June 6 and 7. In between however, they will be closed: no public mid-week swimming.

When they open Saturday, June 13, they will remain open seven days a week until Labor Day.

Who would have guessed it, when water rationing began in February! Recreation director Donald Barr says, with a final triumphant smile, that there will even be showers!

who couldn't afford to otherwise," the mayor said.

Mayor Cawley said he believed the chief problems are what he called "interpersonal." Tenant-landlord scuffles and the level of services provided by a landlord seem to be more important than rents, he commented.

DONATIONS SOUGHT

For Auction. The auction tent of the Fabled Fete will again be one of the attractions of the Princeton Hospital Fete Saturday, June 13, on the Princeton University Fields at Route 1 and Washington Road. The auction begins at 9 a.m. and continues until dark.

Donations of furniture, jewelery, crystal, china, linens, art, silver, furs, rugs and other items are requested. Certified appraisals will be given on these donations with tax deduction slips and free pick-up. Proceeds will benefit the Medical Center at Princeton Foundation.

A "Back Yard Sale" will be an added feature this year. In a separate tent adjacent to the auction tent, large and small appliances and yard equipment will be sold at a set price.

Robert Heller will again serve as auctioneer, assisted by Ruth Block. Friday, June 12, is Preview Day. Sealed bids will be accepted from 1-4 on Friday and from 8-9 on Saturday, June 13.

Serving as auction co-chairmen are Ronnie Fishman, Hillary Potter and Carol Wojciechowicz. Sharon Davidson, Mary Macmanus and Emma Wirtz are co-chairmen for auctinn solicitation.

For information, call 448-0146 or 921-9135.

APPROVED, ONCE AGAIN

Professional Park. It took five separate votes and five hours Monday night, but the Planning Board finally decided to give Princeton Professional Park its approval — for the second time.

PPP was before the board because neighbors had asked Township Committee to reverse the board's original approval. The project envisions three office buildings, designed for the passive use of solar energy, on land between Ewing Street and Bunn Drive. Neighbors protested the use of Ewing for entrance and exit, claiming that a Bunn Drive outlet would be preferable.

Township Committee sent the project back to the Planning Board for reconsideration of traffic flow and the routing of traffic.

The final 6-2 vote leaves the project "as is," but stipulates that Princeton Professional Park must go back to the board in five years for traffic review.

Plans call for the major public entrance-exit on Ewing. Another, on Bunn, would be for employees.

In four earlier votes before the final successful one, board members voted 4-4 on each of four proposals: have a driveway only on Bunn; approve the project again, "as is;" make the Ewing driveway one-way going in; keep the plan, but require right turns only into Ewing.

SCHOOLS DROP 20

Teachers Will Not be Re-Hired. Twenty teachers in Princeton's schools will learn officially this week that they are being dropped, chiefly because of declining enrollments. There are 17 non-tenured and three tenured teachers in the group.

Actually, the news will not be a total surprise because Superintendent Paul Houston has been meeting with non-tenured teachers to explain the staffing situation. Also, three of the non-tenured staff have been teaching this year as replacements for teachers on leave, and have known they would not be hired for '81-'82.

It will be a summer of uncertainty for those who are being dropped. Some will undoubtedly be hired back, to fill vacancies caused by normal staff attrition: teachers moving away, those who are retiring but have not given formal notice, others going on leave, and so on.

A tenured teacher can be dropped, explains Assistant Superintendent Paul Jennings, if the teacher is at the bottom of the seniority list in a given category. It is even possible for a non-tenured teacher to be retained and a tenured teacher dismissed, solely because of seniority and the field of teaching in which the teacher has a certificate.

Nine of the dropped teachers have been in the elementary schools. Not all were classroom teachers, but they had teaching certificates. Seven have been dropped from the middle school and one from the high school.

At the same time, the schools have been advertising for teachers to fill affirmative-action needs. Dr. Jennings explains that administrators want a pool of minority candidates, already interviewed, to fill teaching jobs if anything turns up.

THREE TOURS PLANNED

By Historical Society. The Historical Society of Princeton will join the celebration of spring by sponsoring a series of tours to places familiar and foreign.

Limited space is still available for a two-day bus tour, Thursday and Friday, May 14 and 15, of the "castles" of the Hudsdon River Valley. Olana, the exotic home of painter Frederic Church, will be visited as well as the Vanderbilt Mansion, Boscobel, Lyndhurst, Sunnyside, the picturesque home of Washington Irving, and the historic town of New Paltz.

An opportunity to discover the monuments of Princeton will be provided by a bus tour on Saturday, May 9, which will include downtown Princeton, Nassau and Stockton Streets, as well as Battlefield Park and the Stony Brook Quaker settlement. Mercer Street with its Stedman houses of the 1840s, Queenston-Jugtown, and the Princeton Cemetery ("America's Westminster Abbey") are among the other landmarks to be seen. There will be a charge of $4 for the tour with the bus leaving at 1:30 from the Shopping Center, Acme side.

Those who prefer exploring on foot will enjoy the walking tours of Nassau Street and downtown Princeton co-sponsored by the Historical Society and the Princeton History Project. Ric Endersby, editor of the "Recollector," will lead the tours on two Saturdays, May 16 and 23. Beginning at 10 a.m. each day from Bainbridge House, the tours will meander cross-lots through Princeton's past. There will be a charge of $2 and each tour will be limited to 25 people.

For information and reservations for all three tours call the Historical Society at 921-6748.

TO GIVE PRESENTATION

On Experiences Abroad. Sheila Brady and Mark Pinto, students at Montgomery High School who participated in American Field Service (AFS) International-Intercultural Exchange Program, will give a talk on their experiences Thursday, May 7, at 7:30 in the Mary Jacobs Library in Rocky Hill.

Miss Brady, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Brady of Belle Mead, went to Turkey last summer with AFS and lived with a family in the village of Karasu. Mr. Pinto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Pinto, also of Belle Mead, spent his summer in Malaysia. They will show slides and talk about the adventures they shared with their AFS families.

Each year thousands of American high school students have the opportunity to travel to foreign lands and learn about new cultures through the sponsorship of the AFS programs. Anyone considering applying for an AFS experience is urged to attend. For more information about AFS, contact the local AFS Chapter or high school guidance office.

OPEN HOUSE PLANNED

By Nursery School. The Princeton Cooperative Nursery School (PCNS) will hold an open house Monday from 1 to 3 in its new facilities in Princeton High School's preschool unit.

Designed by Robert Hillier, the new unit consists of two adjoining rooms, a bathroom, and separate access to an enclosed outdoor play area. Prospective students for the 1981-1982 school year, their parents, and interested members of the community are invited to attend.

PCNS, established in 1947 and incorporated in 1958, is currently located in the Lutheran Church of the Messiah, 407 Nassau Street. A three, four or five day program is offered from 9 to noon on a cooperative or non-cooperative basis. The teaching staff consists of Nancy Richardson and Betty Lou Allen, who are assisted daily by a cooperating parent.

Further inquiries may be directed to the membership committee, Laura Morrison, 924-2007, and Grace Johnson, 466-1862.

TO CHRISTEN SCANTICON: Marion Andresen, right, and Donna Reichard, center, meet with Republican Township Committee candidate Gail Firestone to discuss plans for the Republican Association's Annual Dinner Dance. The dance will be held May 16 at the new Scanticon-Princeton Conference Center located at Princeton Forrestal Center. Spring cankerworm

Cankerworms

Have you ever gotten a face full of silky threads while pushing your lawn mower under your favorite shade tree? If you have, then you've met the spring and fall cankerworms, commonly called inchworms or measuring worms.

These smooth bodied caterpillars are hatching now, from eggs laid on warm days last November and December (Fall Cankerworm) and this February and March (Spring Cankerworm). The caterpillars vary from bright green to brown and black, with several light stripes running the length of the body. Fullgrown, they reach about one inch long, and crawl by arching their bodies, bringing the hind legs up to the forelegs, then extending forward.

After completing their feeding on a wide variety of shade and fruit trees, the caterpillars enter dormancy (papate) in the soil beneath the trees. Fall cankerworm adults emerge, mate, and lay eggs in the late fall—the eggs overwinter. Spring cankerworms spend the winter in the soil as pupae, and emerge, mate, and lay eggs early in the spring. The moths of both species are tan, with active flying males and wingless females.

Significant control of cankerworms can be gained by banding susceptible tree trunks with tanglefoot in late fall and late winter early spring. The tanglefoot will capture the female moths as they crawl up the trunk to lay their eggs. If many caterpillars are evident in early May, then a spray is necessary to protect your trees' health and beauty. Cankerworm populations are high again this year, so be on the look-out for damage, especially on ornamental crabapples and cherries.

Call us for complete tree and shrub spraying and related plant health services.

POSTCARD AVAILABLE

In Effort To Save Wild Flower. Members of the Garden Club of America have joined in a fight for the lives of our vanishing wild flowers. To increase public awareness of our rare and endangered plant species, almost 150 clubs across the country have issued postcards picturing an endangered wild flower indigenous to their area.

The Garden Club of Princeton and the Stony Brook Garden Club are doing battle for the Dwarf Ginseng, Panax trifolius. The Dwarf Ginseng is on the endangered list in 21 states, including New Jersey, and grows wild in Mercer County. Also known as Ground Nut because of its pungent but edible tuber, it is related to Sarsaparilla and grows in moist woodlands.

A postcard depicting the Dwarf Ginseng will be available, for 15 cents per card, at the French Markets, sponsored by the Garden Club of Princeton every Friday morning through June 5, and at Stony Brook's May Market on Tuesday, May 12.

It is hoped that the sale of these cards will alert all to the need to protect this precious wild heritage.

BE A VOLUNTEER

It's Volunteer Week. With a salute to National Volunteer Week — now through Sunday — the Council of Community Services has begun distribution of its new "Whole Area Catalog of Volunteer Opportunities" and Princeton's two mayors — Robert W. Cawley, Borough, and Josie Hall, Township — have proclaimed "Princeton Volunteer Recognition Week."

The Council's free directory is in the public libraries of Princeton, Cranbury, West Windsor, East Windsor, Hightstown and Rocky Hill. It may also be picked up at the Council's office in the Valley Road Building.

The catalog, edited by volunteer Mary Applegate, lists more than 80 agencies in the area which welcome volunteers. Specific job descriptions are also provided.

Mrs. Applegate points out that there are volunteer jobs for you even if you don't have a car. If you have a lot of time to give, there are plenty of jobs, but if you can volunteer only now and then or even just once, there is work for you, too.

If you have a specific skill, you may find an agency that needs that skill. If you'd like to develop a skill, or sharpen one you already have, volunteer experience can be an entrance into the paid work force.

This edition, the seventh the Council has published, has a special page of volunteer jobs for young people. The page reflects the inclusion of volunteer service as part of the curriculum of several schools, and the interest of young people's clubs in volunteering.

SUMMER SEATING for outdoor living includes this inviting group by Finkel, found at Carkhuff's Garden Center. Groups by Woodard, Telescope and Monterey Bay are also available and Carkhuff's has a complete selection of lawn, garden and landscaping supplies and a wide variety of garden plants and nursery stock for pleasant summer surroundings.

SETTINGS FOR SUMMER

Supplied by Carkhuff's. Summer settings for pleasant outdoor living can be created with lawn, garden and landscaping supplies and attractive outdoor furniture found at Carkhuff's Garden Center. Grass seeds, garden seeds, fertilizers, insect controls, tools, hoses, sprinklers, fencing and decorative edging are stocked. Stones, sand, mulches and top soil — sold by the bag or in bulk — bricks, patio blocks and railroad ties, and trees, shrubs, flower and vegetable plants are also available.

Outdoor furniture includes groups by Finkel, Woodard, Telescope, Virtue and Monterey Bay. Carkhuff's staff provides efficient service and advice and deliveries are made within a 30 mile radius.

Outdoor Furniture. Attractive, maintenance-free outdoor furniture and table umbrellas can be purchased as sets or by the piece, and all prices are discounted. Finkel's new line of tubular aluminum furniture includes round tables with "Werzalit" tops, impervious to stains, chips, fading or cracking, and chairs and chaises longues in two color groups: "Summertime — sand frames with sand cushions or strapping featuring a brown racing stripe, and "Take it Easy" — white frames with yellow or green and white striped cushions of Textilene mesh.

Finkel's umbrellas for outdoor dining tables — 6 feet to 8½ feet in diameter — feature the "Cinzano" design in red and blue, "Summertime" colors and a variety of prints or solids.

Woodard's wrought iron furniture — solid or mesh — is available as ice cream sets, dining sets, settee groups and chaises longues — in black, white, brown, yellow or antique green and your choice of cushion colors. Monterey Bay's California redwood seating group and tete-a-tete comes with cushions in a rust or lime print; round tables and picnic tables with benches are also offered.

Telescope's folding aluminum furniture includes round tables with "Werzalit" tops and chairs and chaises strapped with vinyl — white frames with yellow or blue strapping and sand frames with brown strapping.

Virtue's "Deauville" group of aluminum furniture has a round, glass-topped table and stacking chairs with latticed vinyl strapping — white frames with yellow or green strapping; sand frames with sand strapping. Lacy cast aluminum in the traditional grape pattern lends charm to a settee, chairs and tree well. Wooden director's chairs, natural or white, are available with canvas or Textilene seats in a wide choice of colors.

Lawn, Patio Accessories. Ceramic bird baths provide water for the birds. Redwood or clay planters, plastic planters and hanging baskets, and redwood or Fiberglas window boxes, filled with flowering plants or summer greenery, are decorative accents for porch and patio.

Half or whole oak barrels are also attractive planters and are newly popular for collecting rain water.

Lawn and Garden Supplies. Verdant lawns can be produced with Carkhuff's grass seed, blended by Lofts for growing in this area, and Loft's boxed seed and Scott's Family Seed is stocked. Scott's and Lehanon's fertilizers, Espoma's Hollytone, Scott's Grow Products and Jobe's tree and shrub spikes help lawns and plants to grow and flourish.

Ortho and Rockland chemicals for garden and lawn pests, Sevin's spray for gypsy moths, Japanese beetle traps by Bag-A-Bug and Ellisco, and dry products — Milky Spore, Dursban and Diazinon — for destroying Japanese beetle larvae — keep destructive insects under control. Ortho's hose-end sprayers, and tank sprayers by Good Nature and Hudson are stocked.

Burpee's garden seeds, onion sets, asparagus roots, strawberry plants, dahlia and gladiola bulbs, and flowering perennials promise a bounty of summer flowers and vegetables. Ames fine quality lawn and garden tools, Jackson's sturdy, easy-to-handle wheelbarrows and Scott's and Ortho's spreaders ease lawn and garden tasks.

Protective and supportive fencing includes rabbit netting, Tomato Gard and wire tomato cages; decorative edging includes Vinyl Gard's folding fence, vinyl edging — green, black or redwood, scalloped blocks — red, yellow, black or green — and landscape and railroad ties. Wood or metal garden stakes and wooden trellises can also be purchased.

Landscaping Needs. The wide selection of nursery stock provides many choices for landscaping. Flowering trees — pink or white dogwood, flowering pear, cherry, crabapple and magnolia, flowering shrubs — lilac, forsythia, quince and spirea, and broadleafed evergreens — azaleas, rhododendrons, dwarf rhododendrons, and andromeda — can be planted for spring enjoyment. Norway maples, Crimson King maples, pin oaks and sycamores provide dense summer shade; apple, peach, pear, cherry and genetic dwarf peach trees offer flowers and fruit.

Evergreen shrubs include Japanese hollies, yews, arbor vitae and junipers; evergreen trees are Norway spruce, dwarf Alberta spruce, hemlocks, white or Austrian pines and Blue Atlas Cedar.

Patio blocks in a choice of colors and railroad and landscaping ties for edging paths, steps and borders can be supplied. Decorative stones — bluestone, yellowstone, red stone, glistening marble chips, Delaware River rock and shredded bark, for walkways or mulches, and sand or topsoil, is available in bulk. Peat moss, pine bark, stones, and shredded bark can also be purchased in bags.

Carkhuff's Garden Center, Route 1, Sout Brunswick, across from the Flagpost Inn, is open 7 days a week. Hours are 8:30-6 Monday through Friday, 8:30-5 Saturday, 9-5 Sunday. The center is initiating a mailing list for

The LANDAU Philosophy

(It's Really Quite Simple)

PART XXXIII

The Problem: Local Retail Advertising...Is it worthwhile?

If retailers could accurately measure the response to their advertisements, the buying public would be able to dictate the actual level of advertising to which it was subject. Advertisements that were of interest to consumers, that generated adequate response would continue. Uninteresting advertisements would be cancelled. The dilemma arises when the retailer wants to regulate his level of advertising, to the interest of his customers but has no way of determining this level of interest

The Landau Solution: We listen for consumer responses to our advertisements, we watch the response to items advertised, and we ask customers for reactions and suggestions.

In our mail order department, we are able to accurately measure interest in our advertisements by tallying the actual number of mail and/or phone responses for each ad we run. Periodically we send a questionnaire to a representative sample of these names on our mailing list, in further hopes of generating useful information.

The problem with local advertising is in determining actual readership when no specific action or response is required

To make a long story short, we are interested in whether or not you are:

a) reading these Philosophy ads?
b) interested in what we've been writing?
c) interested in some specific area, policy, or aspect of our business that we haven't yet mentioned?

If you could take a second to drop us a postcard, or stop in the store, to voice your thoughts, Landau's would be very appreciative You see, the measurement of ad success is a very complex marketing question...unless we go right to the source, and question you, the consumer. Then we'll listen. It's that simple

LET'S TALK ABOUT

Protecting an Investment!

with Sam De Turo

Woodwinds Associates

Those of you who have visited a nursery recently and priced even moderate-sized trees and shrubs, have a brand-new appreciation for those established, mature trees and plantings on your property, right? Add yourself, then, to the list of experts (real estate appraisers, landscape architects, arborists, etc.) who universally agree that beautiful, properly-maintained lawn trees add substantially to the property value of any home!

The secret of a tree's beauty is healthy, vigorous growth. The signs of loss of vigor are many: puny buds, leaves smaller than normal, dead limbs in the tops of the tree. Once a tree loses vigor, insects and diseases move in to hasten decline.

The causes of poor health are also numerous: construction injury, air pollution, starved soils, inadequate root systems and root development, and last, but this year certainly not least, drought!

Lawn trees should be fed periodically to assure continued healthy growth, particularly in new, suburban communities where trees are sorely needed. If lawn trees are not fed, the chances are 50-50 that they will not live to their full maturity. Without liberal feeding as soon as possible this spring, rootlets and tiny hair roots, upon which a tree depends for food and moisture, and which have already suffered drought-damage, will die back further until the root system cannot support the existing crown.

Most lawn trees should be fed at least once every other year, weakened ones once a year, until health is regained. This recommendation is based on WOODWINDS own unique liquid fertilizer, this method of fertilization serves the double purpose of bringing vital nutrients directly and immediately to the root system and, since it is injected into the ground under pressure, it breaks up the heavy soil compaction which is common to our area.

WOODWINDS is always happy to answer questions concerning your valuable trees and shrubs. please call us at 924-3500

ADULT SCHOOL TO MEET

Annual Meeting May 6. The 1981 spring term of the Princeton Adult School recorded the largest registration in the school's history and board members regard this as a particularly noteworthy achievement since each of the three previous terms also set records.

Registration this spring was 1,479. Last fall, it was 1,440. A year ago, in the spring of 1980, registration was 1,237 and in the fall of 1979, 1,163. In the late 1970s, registration was between 800 and 900.

Reports to be presented at the annual meeting next Wednesday, May 6 (8 p.m., Princeton Public Library) will note this growth. At the annual meeting, the board of the Adult School will also elect and install officers for the coming year, and ratify five new board members.

The slate of officers for 1981-82 is as follows: Doreen Utman, chairman; James Dineen, executive vice-chairman; Anne Shepherd, vice-chairman for curriculum and Jean Whitall, treasurer. New board members are William F. Besser, John Bing, John H. Marks, Robert C. Sturken and Prince A. TAylor.

FAMILY FAIR PLANNED

In Community Park. A Family Fair sponsored by the Family Resource Infant Center will be held on Saturday, May 9, from 10 to 4 at the baseball fields in Community Park, Witherspoon Street and Route 206.

"Children are Special" is the theme of this year's fair, which focuses on families with children under four years of age. Planned activities and prizes have been selected in keeping with the interest and ability of the young child. Children from the age of 18 months will find activities in which they can participate. There will also be puppet shows, clowns, live music and refreshments for the whole family to enjoy. Admission is free and the event is open to the public.

The Family Resource Infant Center is a non-profit organization dedicated to providing parent education, child development and family support services. The center offers classes on such topics as child development, discipline, health and safety, as well as workshops on nutrition, art, creative movement, and cooking with a young child, toy selection, and preparing a child for the new baby.

The center also provides a creative educational environment for both infants and toddlers where they can be actively involved while their parents participate in center activities.

Picnicking at the fair is encouraged. In case of rain, the fair will be held on May 16. Proceeds will support center services.

For additional information, call the center at 924-2167 on Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday mornings.

ACTIVITIES LISTED

By Rescue Squad. During March the Princeton Squad responded to a total of 120 first aid calls, 99 of them emergencies, 15 routine transportation calls, and six miscellaneous "others" such as standbys at area events.

Of the 99 emergency calls, 20 were treated as Mobile Intensive Care Unit (MICU) calls with treatment being directed via telemetry by the hospital. Ten of these MICU calls were classified as "precautionary measures," seven showed marked improvement, one showed correction of a potentially dangerous arrhythmia (heart irregularity), and attempts to revive two people in cardiac arrest were unsuccessful.

The total of 120 calls is an all-time high for the Princeton Squad for the month of March. Squad members put in a total of 407 hours on them. In addition, members were involved in a first aid course, a mutual aid "disaster" drill with Twin W Squad, a brief course on rescue breathing taught to a group of mothers of infants, and a cardiopulmonary resuscitation course taught at Stuart Country Day School.

The kinds of emergencies included, among others, motor vehicle accidents, falls at home, psychiatric emergencies, a pedestrian struck by a car, cardiac arrest, heart attacks, strokes, acute respiratory problems, and patients with chronic debilitating diseases.

IT'S REUNION TIME

At PDS. A luncheon, followed by a dinner dance, will be held on the Princeton Day School campus Saturday, May 16 as part of Alumni Day.

All alumni of Miss Fine's School, Princeton Junior School, Princeton Country School and Princeton Day School are invited to attend. Reservations for luncheon or dinner may be made through Martha Sullivan Sword in the Alumni Office, PDS, 924-6700.

Alumni Day and Evening will feature reunions for major classes. The classes of 1931, 1956, 1966 and 1971 will be particularly involved in reunion celebrations.

TO HONOR TROOP LEADER

At Annual Luncheon. Anne Bolick will be honored at the annual luncheon of the Princeton Association of Girl Scouts to be held on Thursday at All Saints' Church. She is retiring after 11 years as a troop leader.

Also being honored at the event are, Phyllis Cassel, Marcia Wood and Jean Rodenbaugh for being in scouting 15 years; Sally McFarlane and Peggy Killmer, 10 years; and Louise Samaroo and Nancy Brauer, five years.

Although retiring from troop leadership, Mrs. Bolick will continue her long-time association with scouting. She has been named head of the Princeton Association of Girl Scouts, to succeed the retiring chairman, Stokes Fishburne.

The Princeton Association of Girl Scouts, currently composed of 11 different troops, serves the community in many ways. These include visiting nursing homes, planting flowers in parks, helping at the library and at Bainbridge House; making items for sale at the Fete, working at the Fete, building bluebird houses, and removing gypsy moth egg masses.

Princeton Now Has Its Own Checker Cab

Nostalgia buffs will he happy to learn that Princeton has its own Checker cab.

It is not the bright yellow model with the distinctive checkered trim that used to cruise New York streets in welcome numbers. but it is every bit as long and roomy and distinctive. It belongs to David Horowitz, an enterprising young man of 27 who purchased the brand new black Checker Marathon model as his personal car and to use in David's Taxi Service.

THAT'S A CHECKER CAB: You can't hail it on Nassau Street, but this new black Checker Marathon is similar in design and creature comforts to the familiar yellow models of byegone days. The owner is David Horowitz of David's Taxi Service who makes airport trips for busy executives in his new car.

Mr. Horowitz juggles two businesses. As son of the veterinarian Dr. Milton Horowitz, he manages Weber's Training Kennel and trains adult dogs. He got into the taxi business about a year ago by driving in his spare time for Det. Frank Boccanfuso of the Township Police Department. Det. Boccanfuso held a taxi license and specialized in airport trips.

Driving business executives to the airport on an advanced reservation basis forms the bulk of David's Taxi Service, and that's where the new Checker cab comes in. As high as it is wide and handsome, the Checker Marathon draws attention to itself among today's compact cars. Protected from curious onlookers by tinted glass oval "opera" windows, the possenger melts back into the black plush interior and leaves the driving to Dnvid — or one of his four employees.

The Checker Marathon will seat seven passengers, but that includes two on the little jump seats, which David does not recommend because they are not very comfortable. Built in Long Islnnd City to last, the Checker Marathon is equipped with air conditioning, an am-fm stereo cassette player and an auxiliary heater for the passenger section.

David also has a Chrysler Newport as part of his fleet. He is licensed by the Borough and is a member of the Taxi Association.

Dnvid has had somewhat of a checkered career himself. He spent six years with the Rusty Scupper organization, starting as an employee of the Rusty Scupper Restaurant here. He then went to management school in Boston and managed Rusty Scuppers in Pittsburgh, Pa., and Amherst, Mass.

He opened a new Rusty Scupper in West Orange, hiring the employees and getting the operation rolling, before moving on to do the same for a new Rusty Scupper in Syosset.

From those years in restaurant management he feels he has learned a great deal about service and how to deal with the public. He sees to it, for instance, that today's newspaper is placed in his taxi before his client is picked up.

CONTRACEPTION TOPIC Of Unusual Exhibit. A Princeton resident has devised an exhibit describing the effectiveness of seven methods of contraception for the express purpose of raising the knowledge level among young people.

The large, free-standing walk-around display, entitled "Sperm plus Egg Equals Baby," is being marketed by Pat Murphys' Institute for Relationship Education, 6 Willow Street. It is available to health and planning educators.

Ms. Murphy is a marriage and sex counsellor at Rutgers University who specializes in marriage relatiooships and intimacy counselling. She has developed and run a series of successful weekend workshops at Rutgers called "The Self in Relationships."

Her research has shown that 21 percent of young women who are sexually active have had at least one unwanted pregnancy. "My experience with young people indicates that they just aren't getting the information they need in order to protect themselves from unplanned pregnancies and the ensuing emotional traumas," Ms. Murphy says. "Students are reluctant to attend meetings about contraceptives, and often they are too embarrassed to ask questions of either a peer or a counsellor."

To overcome the barrier, she has constructed an exhibit to he placed in high-traffic puhlic areas frequented by students — the foyer of the campus dining hall or the student center. She believes students need to be able to ohtain information anonymously so that they don't have to admit they don't know.

The result is a multi-panel presentation that attracts and engages passers-hy with its soft-sculpture figures of a huge wriggling sperm, a waiting egg, and a fetal child. Once the graphic nonverbal message gets attention, a series of silk-screened panels spells out how each method of contraception is used and how it works. Costs and life-style considerations are given, and the relative effectiveness of each method is stressed.

The exhibit steers clear of dictating a preferred method, and it does not advocate going against religious or family teachings.

Prototypes of the exhibit have been shown at Rutgers and at the "Self in Relationships" workshops. Whether the display is set up in the student center or a conference center, it always attracts an audience — a real change from poor attendance at contraceptive lectures announced in the student newspaper, or talks advertised on the bulletin board of the health service, Ms. Murphy says.

She has conducted tests with young people before and after viewing the exhibit and finds the exhibit effectively raises

SHOWROOM OPENS

For Catalog Products. Best Products has opened a new catalog showroom at 4152 Quakerbridge Road.

The two-story 67,000 square-foot showroom is located at the intersection of Quakerbridge Road and Grovers Mill Road in Lawrence Township, adjacent to Quaker Bridge Mall. The new catalog showroom has created approximately 100 jobs for Mercer County. The number of employees is expected to double during the Christmas selling season, which begins in late fall.

About a third of the showroom's interior space is devoted to display of more than 14,000 items of name-brand merchandise: jewelry, stereos, cameras, sporting goods, houseware, giftware, toys and juvenile goods. The remaining two-thirds of interior space is devoted to stock storage. Best operates on the high-volume, low-margin principle, and as a result can offer customers substantial savings on nationally advertised, name-brand merchandise.

This fall, Best will publish more than six million catalogs and distribute them to homes and businesses across the nation. Customers often "preshop" the catalog and come into the showroom where merchandise can be examined and purchased.

The Lawrenceville showroom is the 92nd Best Products catalog showroom in ten states coast-to-coast. Two more Best showrooms will open in Toms River and Eatontown this fall.

Best Products is the nation's largest catalog showroom merchandiser, with sales for fiscal 1980 (ended June 28) of $841.8 million. Best is headquartered in Richmond, Va., where the company was founded in 1957. Best is listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

Robert H. Dicke, of 321 Prospect Avenue, internationally known physicist and alumnus of the University of Rochester, will receive an honorary doctor of science degree at the University's Commencement.

Prof. Dicke, who is Albert Einstein Professor of Science at Princeton University, has been a pioneer and leader in research that has contributed greatly to the understanding of the universe and of its evolution. Through his theoretical proposals, he laid the foundation for many modern gravity experiments, including lunar ranging. His study of the sun's shape led him to formulate a new version of Einstein's theory of general relativity.

Prof. Dicke is particularly highly regarded for the analysis of experimental facts in which he and his collaborators showed that the low temperature cosmic background radiation is a remnant of the early stages of the creation of the universe. Honored many times for his achievements, he received the 1967 Rumford Premium Award of the American Academy of Sciences, the 1971 National Medal of Science, the 1973 Comstock Prize of the National Academy of Sciences, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's 1973 Medal for Exceptional Scientific Achievement, and the Franklin Institute's 1974 Cresson Medal.

Prof. Dicke has been a member of the Princeton faculty since 1946. Earlier, as a staff member of the radiation laboratory at Massachusetts Institute of Technology (1941-1946) he invented the Dicke radiometer, a device which is still widely used for the detection of microwave radiation.

Patricia M. Fishburne of Caldwell Drive, research director at Response Analysis Corporation, gave a seminar on the "National Survey on Drug Abuse: 1971-1979" at Columbia University. In her presentation, Dr. Fishburne described the long-term increase in marijuana use, the recent and dramatic rise in cocaine use, and the influence of the family, particularly mothers and older siblings, on drug use. She also explained the conduct of the study, including the use of the nominative technique to obtain better estimate of heroin usage.

The nominative technique is a research method that she helped to develop for use in the survey; this work formed the basis of her doctoral dissertation.

Scott McVay, 4566 Province Line Road, has been honored by Princeton University's Class of 1955 for "his unique contributions to society, beyond the bounds of occupation, through work that has brought luster to the Class and to Princeton University." Mr. McVay received the award primarily for his leadership during the past decade in the preservation of whales and dolphins in the world's oceans and estuaries, and for his extensive work centered on the discovery of the mental capacities of these creatures.

The Class Award was presented at the annual mid-winter meeting of the class where McVay showed the film, "In Search of the Bowhead Whale," a documentary of his second Arctic expedition, which contains the first footage of the rare Bowhead alive. Produced by the National Film Board of Canada, the film has been viewed by over six million persons in Japan, Canada and England and has had extensive exposure in this country.

Mr. McVay, who is executive director of the Geraldine R. Dodge Foundation in Morristown, spent two years doing research on dolphin communication and additional time on spectrographic analysis of the sounds of the Humpback whale, an endeavor that led to a paper with Roger Payne in Science describing the Humpback's haunting song.

Della G. Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gale M. Smith of 673 Prospect Avenue, has been awarded a Charles A. Dana Scholarship at Guilford College, Greensboro, N.C.

The scholarship, which may pay up to full tuition, is the highest honor the college offers. To be eligible, a student must have completed a full year at the college, maintained a high academic average and shown evidence of character and leadership ability through college or community service.

Miss Smith is a junior majoring in special education.

Navy Airman Darryl G. Grisham, son of Helen E. Grisham of 182 Birch Avenue, has been promoted to his present rank while serving with Fleet Composite Squadron 20, Naval Air Station, Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

Lynnsay Carle, R.N., has been appointed Assistant Director of Nursing at The Merwick Unit of The Medical Center.

Ms. Carle is a graduate of Hamilton High West and received her training at Helene Fuld Medical Center School of Nursing. A registered nurse for nine years, she has also served as a staff nurse, head nurse and nursing care coordinator.

Shana Leader of 9 Monroe Court, Route 4, has won a college-sponsored four-year merit scholarship to Bennington College.

She is a senior at Princeton Day School, where she was named to the Cum Laude Society at the end of her junior year. She expects to study art at college and won a second place in oils and acrylics at Ducret School of Art. She plays violin in the Mercer County Symphonic Orchestra and is a member of the math team and the bike club at PDS.

"There is nothing in the world as well-behaved as a dressed-up eighth-grader!"

The PBA gives $500. Mr. Parrella has registered Princeton with the New York Philharmonic Education Program, and gets orchestra seats for $7.50. Regular rate is $17.50.

Beforehand, Mr. Parrella talks about concerts, how you don't clap at the end of a movement, how you should watch musicians to see how they turn pages without spilling the music on the floor, how they bow.

Last year, the violin soloist was ill and a substitute played the Beethoven violin concerto. The kids were awed.

"They couldn't believe anybody could play that on short notice," Mr. Parrella says. "I explained the musician had it in his repertoire. They know that word."

Little League, soccer, football, fire-arm safety will continue under vigorous PBA sponsorship.

"But this is a special kind of thing and we hope it will grow, so they can go to even more concerts," Sgt. Procaccino says. "If only ten become adult concert-goers, well, that's ten more than we had before."

Assistant Superintendent Explains Princeton System's View Of Special Classes in Context of Report on Minority Standing

A year ago — or more, depending on where you start to count — everybody was talking about a report which stated that 46.3 percent of the black students in Princeton's schools were in special or remedial classes "despite efforts to improve their basic skill levels and thereby raise their level of academic achievement."

It was the Lotz Report, prepared in 1978-79 by Ruth Lotz, a guidance counsellor in the schools, as a sabbatical project. Although she had submitted the report in February, 1979 and many people knew about it, the report was not talked about in public for a year, chiefly because Superintendent Paul Houston felt that the findings only confirmed what school officials already knew.

What has the school system done about the Lotz Report?

"The school system is a circle," begins Assistant Superintendent Paul Jennings, "it's not a ladder with some kids on the bottom rung and others at the top.

"It's a circle — and some kids are on the periphery of that circle. Our program probably meets 75 to 90 percent of kids' needs, the needs of the typical kids. They're in the center.

"But we realize there are kids who don't fit — who are on the periphery. These can be the kids who are very, very bright and think in different ways from the rest. Or, those who are not as emotionally adjusted. Or the kids who need re-inforcement in basic skills."

In short, there are many different kinds of students whose needs are not being met. And in the view of at least one principal, William Johnson of the Middle School, it's not a question of black children, or Asian or Hispanic children.

"I think Princeton is beyond all that race thing," Mr. Johnson says firmly. "We don't deal with race — we deal with learning deficiencies, and keep race out of it."

School officials are working toward a solution of the problem through the "success-based school" philosophy: the idea that every child in the school shall experience success.

"We start with instruction," Dr. Jennings says.

Detecting A Bias. "We look at a teacher's ability to meet the whole range of needs in the classroom. We spend time making principals sensitive, so they can detect a bias as they supervise a teacher. Then, they deal with the teacher on a one-to-one basis, pointing out certain behavior.

"For example, maybe a teacher never calls on the black kids in class. Why not? The teacher may have assumed that black kids need to be protected from the embarrassment of not knowing the right answer. The teacher may have different expectations for different groups of kids.

"And different behavior expectations, too. Maybe the teacher is uncomfortable about disciplining a black child."

Along with instruction, the schools examine the whole program of learning. Is it broad enough to provide something for every kind of student? What about the testing program, and the effect it may have on students?

Dr. Jennings says the schools' Gifted and Talented program is closely related to the idea of a success-based school

"We could have picked kids for that program by I.Q.," he points out, "But there are problems here: did you know that one person can have a spread of 12 points, taking an I.Q. test more than once?

"Our teachers firmly and clearly wanted a policy of not excluding anyone. They wanted as broad a program as possible so that kids could demonstrate their gifts, and we could then provide for those gifts. If there are several things in an enrichment program like this, kids have a chance to stand out in something they've never done before, and we day 'Where has this kid been!'"

Hidden Talents. Dr. Jennings talks about a girl in elementary school who had a very poor image of herself and was doing badly. But through the Gifted and Talented program, she was found to be extremely good on the recorder, with a talent in music nobody had ever realized.

Another student turned out to be talented in voice, and summer work was provided in a Boychoir program. A high-school student with similar musical talents was placed with McCarter Theatre.

"We want to make sure we find these kids — and still find programs for the extremely bright."

Then he adds, after a moment, "Not all those succeed, either."

And he mentions a student at the high school who was doing very badly indeed. He took the SATs and scored right at the top — 790 out of a possible 800.

"This is disturbing," Dr. Jennings concedes. "It's a very troublesome thing to try and pin responsihility, hut we just must look at what we're doing."

Meanwhile, school board members have been caught up in the idea of the success-based school.

First of all, New Jersey requires school districts to follow two affirmative-action programs. Schools are required to ferret out biased text-books, to make sure budgets do not diseriminate between girls' and boys' sports, and so on. In addition, schools must have affirmative-action hiring policies.

Keeping these in mind, hoard members on the Program and Policy, Finance and Personnel committees considered the success-based school

Meeting Standards. Curriculum may not be responding to the broad range of students in the system, the Program and Policy committee warned. The committee found that, even with the high cut-off that has been set for the remedial program, students above the cut-off have difficulty meeting curriculum standards.

"At the high school," the report says, "you really can't find enough courses to place the students adequately."

Are remedial students getting the double dose they need? the report asks. They may get remedial work, but not be in the regular program.

The report questions "pull-out"; taking the student out of the classroom for remedial work. This means the teacher loses contact, and has to be filled in by the Student Services staff, the report points out.

This committee thinks it might be a good idea to use tutors in such a way that all

Games Kids Play May Help Them Learn How to Read Without Future Problems

In gym class, the teacher has you line up on the red circles, or the blue circles. Or you line up from left to right, or from top to bottom of a line.

Inside, in your kindergarten or first grade classroom, you form patterns with shapes, pegs and holes and you talk about these patterns.

You listen and listen and listen--and learn to repeat, accurately, what you have heard.

These three elements, described very broadly, constitute the Hammondsport Reading Program for kindergarten-first grade. Hammondsport has prevention as its goal. School officials are saying, tentatively, that studies now seem to show that maybe children who have been through the program don't need remedial work quite so much as other children.

Hammondsport began at Littlebrook. It is now being used at Riverside as well, and will probably be started in '81-'82 at Community Park, so that children in all three elementary schools will be able to participate.

Another "prevention," school officials think, is the full-day kindergarten. It is optional, but Assistant Superintendent Paul Jennings says most parents have chosen it.

"We base our thinking on the fact that the more time kids spend in school, the more time they have to develop readiness skills and social relationships, and the more time teachers have to learn what kids need," Dr. Jennings says.

Prevention, then, may be a remedy—if not "the" remedy—for children who now find themselves in remedial classes.

SET IN "BOLD TYPE": It's not a kickline—that comes elsewhere in the show—but it's clearly Triangle. "Bold Type" is the name of this year's Triangle Club musical. Adapted from Booth Tarkington's "The Gentleman from Indiana," it takes place around 1890, which accounts for those leg-o-mutton sleeves, dust-catcher skirts and high collars. Left to right are Rich Baumann, Jason Gold, Amanda Young, Roger Hardy, Mark Kramer and Mary Stewart. (Joe Bolster photo)

KICKLINE? YES!

For Triangle. Anybody who doesn't know by now that the 1981 Triangle Club musical has a real book, and that the book has been adapted from Booth Tarkington's first novel, "A Gentleman from Indiana," and that Tarkington was the founder of Triangle in 1891 and that there really will be the traditional kickline, just hasn't been reading the script.

The show is "Bold Type" and it opens this Thursday. It will play this Friday, Saturday and Sunday and again on Reunion weekend, June 5 and 6.

Triangle has dedicated the show to the memory of Freddy Fox, a member of Princeton University's class of 1939, who was Keeper of Princetoniana from 1976 until his death this February. He was a trustee of Triangle, and had been urging the club to write a musical based on something by Tarkington.

"Bold Type" is about a newly-graduated son of Princeton University ("John Harkless, '93") who is trying to revive a failing small-town newspaper in Plattesville, Indiana.

GERTRUDE

Stein, Stein, Stein. The play, an imaginary monologue, begins on a rainy day as Gertrude Stein is about to be evicted from the famous studio in Paris that has been her home for 40 years. She muses about her friend, Alice B. Toklas--asleep upstairs, their separate and together lives and the people they knew.

It's Pat Carroll's "Gertrude Stein Gertrude Stein Gertrude Stein," appearing next Tuesday at 8 at McCarter, as the theatre's final event of the season on its special-events calendar.

Miss Carroll spent three years exploring the Paris of Gertrude Stein and reading volumes of material about her, and her friendships with Hemingway, Picasso, Joyce and all the rest.

"In most people's minds," Miss Carroll has found, "Stein is a dour woman, sitting in the Picasso portrait, staring as though her life were a heavy burden. My research discovered that this woman, who attracted the greatest creative minds of her day, had humor and wit as well as energy and forcefulness. This is the area in which I have concentrated."

The "play" was written by Marty Martin, commissioned by Miss Carroll. It was cited by the Outer Critics Circle as 1980's "Best off-Broadway Production."

YOUNG STRINGS: These musicians are members of the String Training Ensemble of the Mercer County Symphonic Orchestra. Under Portia Sonnenfeld's baton, they will present their second annual Spring Concert this Sunday in Edith Memorial Chapel, Lawrenceville School.

YOUTH TO PERFORM

In Concert in Lawrenceville. The String Training Ensemble of the Mercer County Symphonic Orchestra will present its second annual Spring Concert on Sunday, May 3, at 2 in Edith Memorial Chapel of the Lawrenceville School. The concert is open to the public and there is no admission charge.

Portia Sonnenfeld conducts the String Training Ensemble and offers professional training and guidance to the young musicians who range from 9 to 15 years of age. Approximately 60 members strong, the Ensemble rehearses weekly to acquire the skills of ensemble playing and to broaden its orchestral repertoire. To date, the String Training Ensemble has featured a string quartet at one concert and a concertino solo group performing a concerto grosso at another.

The group will take the next step at this concert and will accompany several soloists. All of the quartet, concertino and solo performers are members of the Ensemble.

The May concert program will include selections by J.S. Bach, Vivaldi, Telemann, Satie and Sarasate. In keeping with Mrs. Sonnenfeld's belief that youngsters should be exposed to music of all compositional periods, the musical performances of this concert run the gamut from the early baroque of Vivaldi and Telemann through the late baroque of Bach to the nationalistic romanticism of Sarasate and the surrealistic anti-impressionism of Satie. Concerti for Four Violins by Vivaldi and Telemann will feature various members of the violin sections of the String Training Ensemble.

Eleven-year old Valerie Clemans of Pennington will perform the first movement of Bach's "Violin Concerto in A Minor." She is presently a pupil of Dr. Daniel Schuman, professor of music at Douglass College and has been studying the violin for six years.

A graduate of Princeton University, Mr. Farrington has given a number of concerts under the auspices of the Friends. He has taught piano at the Lawrenceville School and was staff pianist for the Ballet Society in Princeton. Last season he appeared as pianist for the McCarter Theatre production of "The Taming of the Shrew."

Suzanne Mead is a graduate of Oberlin Conservatory with a degree in Performance. She has been the winner of numerous competitions and studied at Tanglewood and the Sarasota Music Festival.

The program will consist of J.S. Bach's French Suite in G Major and the Partita in D Major; Sonata in G Minor for Cello and Piano by Beethoven and Chopin's "Nocturnes" Opus 62, Nos. 1 and 2.

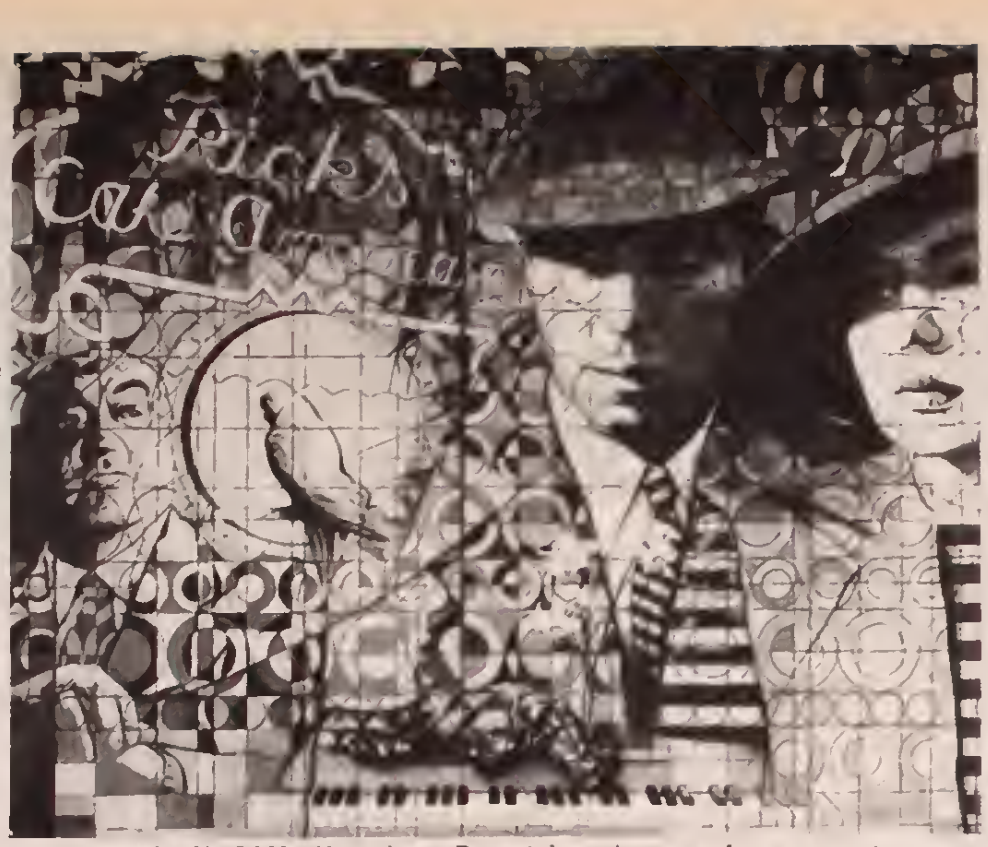
"NEW ART"

From North Carolina. The art of the past decade has presented us with many different views. There are some that we could have done without. In the post-op, post-pop, post-abstract-expressionist years, many of the makers of art considered it their responsibility to provide us with art that is also Something Else. And, frequently, that is what we got.

Much of this recent product, as opposed to earlier art, depends more upon language than image. In the new forms, the old vocabulary that relied upon color, form and rhythm for expression has often been cast aside and replaced by an idiom of a more conceptual nature.



PLAY IT AGAIN, SAM—Humphrey Bogart is only one of many contemporary images that are to be found in the collection of Art from North Carolina on display at E.R. Squibb Gallery.

Although we appreciate innovation, sometimes for its own sake and always for its capacity to generate new ideas, we are disturbed by the proliferation of "innovative" art that is, in fact, derivitive and, in its way, as tradition-bound and lacking in thought as the work it replaced. Many recent works of art appear to be almost interchangable with their contemporaries, destroying their most important characteristic: the novelty and sense of surprise that generates thought.

There are those who will dispute this point of view, and they are welcome to all the aesthetic joy that such artwork provides. They have a chance to see an up-to-date sampling of "new art" in the collection of Art from North Carolina at the Gallery at E.R. Squibb. The display includes often puzzling, sometimes interesting and, occasionally, pleasing works that have been selected for display by the North Carolina Arts Council. It is, ostensibly, a representative selection of art from that state.

Many of the works are puzzling rather than pleasing: a piece of irregularly shaped plywood that has been rubbed with paint, a very large canvas with a circle drawn on it, a large canvas with numbers in a grid accompanied by an equally large canvas blocked into different grids composed of tonal cubes and lines.

The ubiquitous photoreal is there too, this time in a larger-than-life collection of birds, patterns composed of what appear to be birch logs and a realer-than-real drawing of a shirt.

Included among these less "conventional" works are some in a more traditional, if rather trendy mode. There are instances of fine technique, a few that toy with traditional forms, and one finely developed, slightly puzzling pair of paintings using traditional Japanese syntax in an unusual manner.

Certainly there is variety. Certainly, for better or for worse, this does reflect a fragment of what is happening in art today. Whether it reflects all that is happening in North Carolina is another question. We think it is probably a good one.

At the Princeton University Art Museum. Works on paper are the most fragile forms of art. They are, regrettably, affected by light and must be kept in darkness much of the time if they are to be preserved. Because of this we are not able to enjoy many of the important and most beautiful works of art on a continuing basis.

Unfortunately, the watercolors of Paul Cezanne must be included in this category. These delicate, fresh and vulnerable impressions of many of the artist's favorite subjects are only intermittently on display and then must be removed quickly to protect them from the destructiveness of light.

A small but significant collection of Cezanne watercolors is making another brief appearance at the Art Museum. Although the current display includes only a portion of the watercolors by this artist that are in the Pearlman collection, those on display offer several views of the themes that this artist turned to repeatedly, and because of the spontaneity involved in his use of the medium, allow us a better understanding of the manner in which Cezanne manipulated space and color.

The nature of watercolor makes it easy to see the manner in which small pieces of color were used by the artist to modify lines and build planes in order to create form and develop depth. Cezanne's highly personal method of handling the interaction between lines and planes is apparent. Small, translucent areas of color are woven together to build trees and develop landscape and still life. The white of the paper is combined with jewel-like segments of wash to create color patterns and develop highly structured spatial relationships which build a strong sense of a third dimension.

These paintings are even more significant when considered in conjunction with the Cezanne oils in the Main Gallery. The contrasts and similarities of work in different media permit a greater understanding of, and deeper pleasure in, the work of this artist.

Rembrandt Etchings. A display of Rembrandt etchings can be seen in the Prints and Drawings Gallery. There are portraits as well as more complex figurative works. There is sufficient variety in both subject matter and the nature of the prints to allow some understanding and appreciation of their qualities.

The balanced compositions with highlighted features and rich tonal variations that characterize his paintings can also be seen in Rembrandt's prints. Even the simplest of these etchings is made up of intricate linear techniques. Form is created out of cross-hatched lines. There are complex relationships between figures and background shapes that combine with an understructure of light and shadow.

In this display, we can

DEMONSTRATION SET

Of Portraits At YWCA. A portrait demonstration by Princeton artist Peter Cook will be presented by the YWCA, Paul Robeson Place, Thursday, May 7, from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

A portrait and landscape painter, Mr. Cook will describe the techniques of painting, what he is doing and what types of paint he is using on an actual portrait.

Mr. Cook prefers to paint directly without using preliminary drawings in another medium. He refers to his technical approach as "alla prima," meaning that the first brush strokes often remain as a part of the finished painting. He will show how the head of the subject evolves from an oval shape, with likeness developing as the portrait progresses.

Mr. Cook is donating his time for this one-session presentation to benefit the YWCA, a member agency of the United Way--Princeton Area Communities. YWCA membership is not required to attend Mr. Cook's demonstration, but there is a $10 fee and advance registration is requested through the YWCA office.

Pastel Course. People interested in painting, even those with little or no art experience, can learn the fundamentals of using pastels, colored pencils and watercolors in another YWCA class, Drawing and Painting. This five-session course will be given from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Wednesdays, May 6 through June 3 by Karen Peterson. Registration for this class can also be made through the YWCA office.

For further information on either of these programs, call Arlene Berman, YWCA Adult Program Director, at 924-5571.

SCULPTURE RUN SET

On Campus. The third annual Princeton Sculpture Run will be held on Saturday, beginning at 3:30 at the gates of Nassau Hall. The rain date is May 3.

Eileen Guggenheim of Princeton's Department of Art and Archaeology, whose field is modern art, will don her running shoes to lead this jogging tour of Princeton's famous Putnam collection of contemporary outdoor sculpture.

Ms. Guggenheim will give a brief talk as the participants rest at each of the sculptures visited along the 2½ mile route. Included on the tour will be sculptures by Picasso, Calder, Segal, Meadmore, Nevelson and Pevsner. The tour will end around 5 p.m. at the Museum, where refreshments will be served.

The event is sponsored by the Student Friends of the Art Museum, one of the largest student organizations on campus. T-shirts commemorating the event will be on sale for $4 at the Nassau Hall gates prior to the start. There is no admission fee. The public is invited.

DAY TRIPS PLANNED

All-day trips to historical and ethnic locations will be led by the painter and teacher, Dorothy Bissell. These classes will be held Wednesdays, May 6, 13, 20 and 27, from 10 to 3:30. For registration and further information, call 921-9173.

Mrs. Bissell's classes are for the experienced artist who wants to work at on-site painting in any medium. Composition, technique and preliminary sketching is stressed. There will be demonstrations and critiques of the art work done, from the old houses to the onion domes of the Russian churches in the areas to be visited.

A recent winner of the top prize at the Phillips Mill Show in New Hope, Mrs. Bissell is a graduate of the Parsons School of Design, NYC, and studied with Leon Kroll, Louis Bouche, Nicholas Reale, Ranulph Bye and Robert Sakson. She has taught overseas and here and is listed in Who's Who of American Women.

FESTIVAL PLANNED

Of Contemporary Art. A festival of sights, sounds, movement and color will take place on the Princeton University campus on Saturday from noon-4.

Art Festival '81, a student-initiated event, will combine a juried exhibition of the finest in student art work with music, performances, and lectures by contemporary artists. The festival aims to combine a festive occasion with a serious and informed approach to contemporary art.

A panel of artists, sculptors, and architects will address the topic, "Public Monuments and Private Perspectives," exploring the role and the audience of public art in our society. Speakers on the panel include Carl Andre, Mary Miss, Tony Rosenthal, Thomas Sansone and Nancy Goldring, moderator. In addition, artist Judith Shea will speak on the topic, "Decorativism and Post-Modernism."

Student artists from more than 30 colleges, universities and art schools in five states have been invited to participate in the festival's juried exhibition. Prizes and distinctions will be awarded in painting, sculpture, photography and miscellaneous media. Jurors for the exhibition include Sam Hunter, professor of art history, Princeton University; Lauren Ewing, sculptor and instructor, Rhode Island School of Design; and Catherine Porter-Scully, painter.

A full program of dance, music and poetry has been scheduled for the afternoon. Performances will include appearances by the Expressions Dance Company, the Tigertones and Tigerlilies vocal groups, jazz and rock musicians, and readings by student poets and writers.

Art Festival '81 will take place at the Woodrow Wilson School on the Princeton University campus. Lectures, readings and performances will be going on continuously throughout the afternoon. Admission to all activities is free, and the public is encouraged to attend. The event is sponsored by PrincetonArt (Michael Azarian, president) and the Princeton Endowment for the Arts (Don Hawthorne, chairman).

Heptagonals To Be Held in Stadium Saturday; Lacrosse Team Set for Showdown with Cornell

At a time of year when Palmer Stadium normally is used as nothing more than a launching pad for fireworks displays, thousands of eastern collegiate athletes are either preparing or hoping to compete there, in two different sports. This weekend Princeton will host the annual Heptagonal track meet with the eight Ivy League schools plus Army and Navy competing.

The next Saturday, track competitors will descend on the stadium again, for the second annual Princeton - Adidas Invitational. And on Saturday, May 30, Palmer Stadium will be the site of the NCAA lacrosse championships.

Major track events were fairly common occurences at Palmer Stadium back in the era of the great Princeton miler Bill Bonthron, Class of 1934. But an outdoor Heptagonal meet has not been held at Princeton since 1963, and its placement here this year is in large part due to the presence of the rubberized track, installed two years ago to replace the cinders. Back in the early '50s the Orange and Black lacrosse team played major games on its schedule in the stadium. The last time Palmer Stadium was the site of a lacrosse game was eight years ago, when the North-South all-star game was held here.

This week's Heptagonals begin on Saturday at 4:30 with trials and conclude with finals on Sunday, weight events starting at 11:45 and running events at 1:30. Coach Larry Ellis's Tigers are not only hosts but also among the favorites: in the indoor Heps earlier this year Princeton finished one point behind first place Penn and a half point ahead of Army.

The track action figures to be the premier event of an otherwise quiet weekend on the University athletic fields. The only other major Princeton team competing at home is the heavyweight crew, which rows against Cornell and Boston University Saturday morning on Lake Carnegie. The first race is scheduled for 9:40; the varsity boats should be off at 11.

New Lacrosse Coach. The lacrosse team, with hopes still alive for an Ivy League championship in what will be Mike Hanna's last year as head coach, faces Rutgers Wednesday at 3 on Finney Field, before making a showdown appearance against Cornell Saturday at Ithaca.

Hanna announced his resignation Sunday after five years as head coach of the Tigers. He will become athletic director at Hobart College, the Upstate New York school that is a perennial powerhouse in Division II lacrosse.

Replacing Hanna at Princeton is Jerry Schmidt, 41, a three-time All-American at Johns Hopkins in the early '60s, who coached at Hobart for 12 years, compiling a 140-34 record. For the past four years Schmidt has been assistant coach at Navy. "I couldn't be happier at the prospect of being associated with Princeton," the new coach told reporters.

Hanna's team, meanwhile, which lost a one-goal game the week before, triumphed in one this past week, defeating Harvard, 10-9. It was Princeton's third Ivy League game decided by one goal. Its other league game, against Penn, was won by the more comfortable margin of two goals.

Hollis to Ronan. The Princeton Harvard game was tied at eight in the final period. Then, Gerry Ronan scored his third goal of the contest on an assist from Paul Hollis, and Kelly Doherty collected his second goal of the game with just 2:21 left. That proved to be the winner.

Princeton raised its overall record to 6-3 and its Ivy mark to 3-1. The loss eliminated Harvard from Ivy title contention.

The Tiger tennis team, which recorded its sixth and seventh straight wins over the weekend, will travel to Army and Cornell this weekend. Princeton defeated Penn handily, 8-1, last Friday.

The opponent on Saturday, Columbia, was expected to provide a stronger test than it did. Two top Columbia players were out of the line-up, and the Tigers' squad was strengthened by the addition of senior co-captain Adam Cioth, who had been sidelined with injuries since March 31. Cioth played at the No. 2 position and took a hard-fought, 6-4, 7-6 win from Andy Caulfield. "I didn't have a ton of energy," he told a student journalist afterward. Princeton finished with a surprisingly easy 8-1 team win to remain unbeaten in league play.

Doubleheader Triumph! As it prepared for this week's road trip to Temple, Army and Cornell, the Tiger baseball team had something to cheer about: winning both games of a doubleheader for the first time since 1978.

Coach Dick Hartnett was able to schedule both his pitching aces, Mark Lockenmeyer and Bob Holly, against Columbia last Saturday and Princeton rolled to 11-2 and 9-1 victories. The Tigers' overall record is now 8-16-1, and 4-7 in the Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball League. With three league games left, Princeton retains a chance of finishing the year with a .500 record in EIBL play.

Lockenmeyer, who makes no secret of the fact that he hopes his pitching will result in a professional contract, allowed six hits and just one earned run in the opening game. Also one of the league's leading hitters with a .400 average, Lockenmeyer rapped three singles, though his hitting in this game was overshadowed by that of Jay Lieberman, who tripled, hit an inside-the-park home run, and drove in three runs.

Liberman also tripled in the second game, as Holly allowed only four hits. Scott Minnich and Bill Miller both drove in two runs for Princeton as all the Tiger starters managed to collect at least one hit during the afternoon.

Two Games, Twelve Errors. The great plague of the current team, errors, did not haunt the Tigers against Columbia. But the team recorded a slew of miscues in its two previous games. Princeton committed six errors and allowed four unearned runs against Penn on Friday, as the Quakers won, 8-3. Chris Cascia was the unfortunate starting pitcher for the Orange and Black. He was relieved by Mike Judy, who struck out four in three innings.

Earlier in the week against Manhattan, Princeton played another atrocious game in the field, with six more errors. This time, however, the Tigers played well in comparison — Manhattan managed to make 10 errors and lose the game, 8-7. Holly, who struck out six and allowed only one hit in the first five innings, had to be replaced by Steve Kordish as the defense crumbled. But Lockenmeyer stole home in the sixth to tie the game at seven, and Paul Steinhauser drove in the winning run with a sacrifice fly.

Princeton's only undefeated spring team, the lightweight crew, will be pulling for its fifth straight victory Saturday at Cambridge, in the Big Three race with Harvard and Yale. The lightweights swept all six rnces last week against Penn, with the varsity hoot finishing seven seconds ahead.

The heavyweight crew lost to Harvord by five seconds last Saturday in Cambridge, but finished ahead of MIT. The heavyweights are now 4-2.

Meyer Wins in Rtelays. The track team, which has surprised its followers with unexpected personal achievements this year, pulled off noother exceptioonal effort in the Penn Reloys last weekend. Tom Meyer became Princeton's first individual winner in the Peno meet since 1953.

Meyer threw the javelin 260 feet, 2 loches, to win the event in the college divisioo. His throw was a new University record and bettered his previous best by almost fourteen feet. Meyer's effort also exceeded that of the winner in the open javelin competition.

Augie Wolf, who has provided several other pleasant surprises for coach Ellis this spring, did not get off his best shot put at Franklin Field. He threw about five feet short of his personal best, but he still managed a fifth place finish.

Princeton also placed second in the 800-meter relay in the IC4A division, with Remo Blagioni, Paul Arata, Ken Bruce, and Manny Modu running for the Tigers. The mile relay teann placed fifth.

TIGER NINE TOPPED

By Rutgers. The Princeton baseball team's doubleheader success against Columbio Saturday failed to carry over into Monday, as the Tigers dropped a 7-5 decision to Rutgers in New Brunswick. The loss dropped their season's mark further into the red at 8-17-1.

Starting pitcher Steve Kordish, who also was given the designated hitter assignment, singled home a run in the top of the first to give himself a brief 1-0 lead. However, Rutgers tied the game in the second, added another in the third, two more in the fourth and another single tally in the fifth.

The Scarlet Knights chased Kordish in the sixth when they scored their final two ruos to take a 7-1 lead. Chris Cascia came in to get the last out in the sixth and finished up.

In a gesture towards respectability, Princeton scored one in the eighth on a wild pitch, and added three more in the ninth. Steve Mayer produced one with a single, a sacrifice fly by Henry Milligan drove in another, and Neil Cable doubled home the final tally with a double. Cable and Bill Miller had four of the Tigers' 10 hits between them.

WIN STREAK ENDS

For PDS in Lacrosse. "We had heen playing less well every game, and it finally caught up with us," commented Princeton Day coach Bob Krueger after his team's 5-4 loss to Delbarton last Friday.

The defeat was the Panthers first in eight games, and it did more damage to their pride than their division standing. Delbarton is a B division team, and so PDS remains unbeaten in its division. However, the pride might well have taken a beating. It's been about four years since PDS last lost to a B team.

It's anybody's guess whether the fact that Delbarton was PDS's first road contest of the season contributed to the defeat, but the absence of two key members of the defense, Phil Clippinger and Laird Laodmann certainly did.

PDS had no trouble controlling the ball, but could not score. Delbartoo, meanwhile, made the most of its limited chances, aided by some defensive lapses by the Blue and White. It got two goals fairly quickly, and built up a 4-ll lead by halftime.

The Panthers hoped to score first in the second half, but soon found themselves down 5-0. Midway through the period, PDS finally tallied its first goal, and added another before it ended.

The Panthers crept closer in the final period, closing to within a goal with about a minute left. They then got the ball back, and had a man-up situation, but could not get the tying score. A penalty flag thrown against Delbarton during this time by one of the referees who then changed his mind, and neglected to inform anybody, didn't help either.

In addition to the loss, which was bad enough, PDS also will not have the services of Newell Thompson, who suffered a shoulder separation.

Last Wednesday, the Blue and White had better luck with Montville, winning 5-2 for its seventh victory. Phil Ferrante got the Panthers rolling with his first goal, just 46 seconds into the game.

The visitors ties it up less than a minute later, but PDS used goals by Thompson and Joe Warren to build a 3-2 lead at the half. Ferrante and Warren scored again in the second half, while the PDS defense held Montville scoreless.

Moorestown is on the schedule for Friday at home, PDS's next A division game will be next Wednesday against Peddie.

PINGRY BEATEN

By PDS in Lacrosse. Not surprisingly, Friday's loss to Delbarton helped pace the way for Monday's 10-2 victory over a stronger Pingry team by the Princeton Day lacrosse team.

The Panthers came out swinging right from the start, and scored half their goals within the first six minutes of play. They slowed down after that, and coasted the rest of the way for their eighth triumph in nine games. PDS is now 3-0 in A division play.

John Drezner again won most of the face-offs, making it easy for PDS to control the ball. Rohbie Bowen scored three times, Joe Warren, twice, and Sam Borden, Sam Woodworth, Erik Jeosen, Kevin Johnson and Drezner had one apiece.

Coach Bob Krueger credited Jeff Olsson with a fine job in the goal, and also cited defenseman Dan Thompson for his coverage of Pingry's top offensive threat.

PDS GIRLS NOW 5-0

In Lacrosse. Unlike the boys, the Princeton Day girls lacrosse team did not suffer any letdowns last week, and won two more contests to keep their perfect record intact at 5-0.

On the schedule this week are games against Morristown High this Wednesday at home, and Chatham High Friday away.

It's been two years since their last victory over Stuart Country, but the Panthers finally managed to beat their arch rival last Tuesday. Stuart had won six consecutive games over the past two years, including last year's championship.

PDS began looking asif it might lose this one, too, falling behind 2-0 early in the first half. But the Blue and White soon pulled even, and led 4-3 at the half. It was almost all PDS after the intermission, as it scored four more goals for an 8-4 final. Coach Kim Bedesem was naturally pleased with the outcome, but felt her team could have played much better.

Jessie Drezner scored three times, Sarah Burchfield, twice, and Janet Zawadsky, Cathy Edelmann and Suzie Haynes once.

On Friday against Germantown Academy, the Panthers coasted to a 17-5 triumph, led by Edelmann's six goals. Drezner tallied five times, Louise Matthews had three, Zawadsky, two, and Alice Ganoe, one.

SIXTH WIN RECORDED

By PDS Girls Lacrosse. The Princeton Day girls lacrosse team played its toughest game of the season Monday, but when the dust had settled the Panthers had recorded their sixth straight victory without a defeat, beating Springside (Chestnut Hill, Pa.) 10-9.

A bit of drama surrounded the game from the start, when utility player Janet Zawadsky was thrust into a starting role in place of Cathy Edelmann, who was stuck on a slow train as she tried to return from Connecticut in time for the game.

Ms. Zawadsky, a sophomore, getting more and more playing time each game, responded by firing home six goals to lead the PDS attack. An early 2-0 Panther lead was soon overcome by the home team, which built up a 5-3 advantage by the half.

A four-goal surge by the Blue and White early in the second half proved to be the key. Springside was able to tie the score three more times, but never got in front again, as the teams traded goals right down to the end.

A score by Debbie Burks with a minute left made it 10-9, and there was little time left for Springside to tie it. Burks finished with two goals, Jessie Drezner and Louise Matthews, one each. PDS now has scored 85 goals to 38 for its opponents.

Tiger Golfers Win Title

Princeton's golf team won its third consecutive Ivy League title Sunday, finishing 28 strokes ahead of its nearest competitor after three rounds of play at Springdale Golf Club.

Paced by junior Steve Loughran and sophomore Jim Furey, who finished first and second in individual scoring, Princeton broke a first round tie with Harvard to move 20 strokes ahead of Dartmouth on Saturday. The Green lost eight more strokes during the final round.

Despite adverse weather conditions on Saturday, both Loughran and Furey recorded their best scores on that day. Loughran shot 78, 74, and 75 during the tournament, while Furey followed with scores of 80, 73, and 75.

The other Tiger scorers were Tim Dodson and Bruce Rogers. Princeton faces Rutgers Wednesday at Springdale and then competes in the Eastern championships this weekend in Maryland.

PU FRESHMAN VICTOR

In College Golf Tourney. Princeton University freshman Merideth Hudson won the New England Intercollegiate Golf Tournament last week when she defeated Tanya Lennox of Rochester University on the third hole of a playoff. Both had tied after 36 holes, Miss Hudson shooting an 82 the first day and an 85 the second.

Forty girls from 11 colleges participated in the event held on courses in South Hadley and Amherst, Mass. A resident of Yarmouth, Maine, Miss Hudson was a runner-up in the Maine Championship last year and was a member of the varsity golf team in high school.

Other members of the Princeton team were Susan Wenz, captain; Elizabeth Regan and Ellen Longmire. In the team standings, Princeton finished third behind first-place Amherst and Rutgers.

PHS NETMEN WIN

4-1 Over West Windsor. Princeton High School defeated West Windsor in a Colonial Valley Conference tennis match Monday, 4-1.

Princeton's lone setback came in the number one singles, where Jacob Leschley lost to the Pirates' Scott MacLeod, 6-7, 4-6. Andy Goodyear and David Yim won their single matches in straight sets.

In doubles play, Roger Carlson and Eric Granade triumphed, 6-4, 6-0, and Steve Ellis and Dave Ellerstein won, 6-3, 6-1. On Thursday, PHS will entertain undefeated Hopewell Valley and on Friday it will be at rival Princeton Day School.

Lacrosse Team 4-0. The PHS girls lacrosse team raised its record to 4-0 Monday with a 9-5 victory over Chatham Township.

Kathy Kahny led the Little Tigers with four goals, while Carla Meade and Audrey Chen each scored twice. With both varsity goalies sidelined, jayvee goalie Ann Sutphin played a good game in front of the net for the victors.

Coming up are two games against town rivals. PHS will be at Stuart Country Day School this Wednesday afternoon and at Princeton Day School Monday for a 3:45 contest.

Softball Team Routed. The PHS girls softball team was crushed by West Windsor Monday, 23-1, in a game called after five innings. Winless PHS (0-8) was held to two hits by winning pitcher Laurie Arendas.

The Pirates clubbed Ann Almgren for 23 hits, including three home runs, two triples and six doubles. They plated 11 runs in the third inning and eight more in the fourth.

PHS RUNS PAST EWING

To Remain Undefeated. Princeton High's unbeaten track team had been feeling the pressure over its upcoming confrontation with unbeaten Ewing, but coach Marc Anderson had the answer.

"I told them to relax. Go out and win the first few events and it would come easy." As it turned out, the Little Tigers needn't have worried. Anderson had the perfect strategy and his team followed his instructions to a "T." Make that a "V" as in a convincing 82-49 victory.

PHS nearly swept the first three events to take an early lead, and never looked back. It was the team's 16th consecutive victory, which includes six indoor season wins.

PHS opened by sweeping the 110 high hurdles. Stephan Fletcher (14.7), Wayne Davis (14.9) and Ken McKellar (16.5) finishing 1-2-3. In the 100 meter, the next event, Paul Miles, usually invincible in this event, was upset-- by teammate Lamont Fletcher. Fletcher edged Miles for the first time ever, clocking a 11.1 to Miles's 11.2.

Miles and Stephan Fletcher then combined to take first and second in the long jump, Miles leaping 20-3, Fletcher 19-10. "After we did well in the first three events I knew we were rolling and it would be tough for them to beat us," commented Anderson.

The win left PHS on top in the Colonial Valley Conference League, with a 2-0 mark. Ewing is 2-1. "You never know what can happen, but I'd be surprised if we lose it," said Anderson.

21½ Points for Fletchers. The Fletcher brothers were not finished with Ewing just yet. Lamont won the 400 intermediate hurdles in 58.2 (Davis was second in 62.7), while younger brother Stephan, a sophomore, was third in the 200 meter, which Miles won in 22.1 Both then joined Jon Woolston and John Perkins in the 1600 relay, where PHS defeated Ewing 3:35.4 to 3:43.1 In all, the Fletchers accounted for 21½ points, a quarter of their team's total.

In the shot put, Princeton's P.J. Young and Tom Murray finished 1-2 with throws of 51-4 and 47-6½. Ewing's Tom Cooper was a distant third with 40-8½. Pete Sharpless and McKellar also finished 1-2 in the high jump

Ewing picked up points by sweeping the pole vault and winning the javelin, discus, 800 and 400 meter run.

Tom Patrick of PHS was a double winner in the distance races. He won the 1500 in 4:27 to lead a PHS sweep in that event (Perkins and Ray Fisher coming in second and third) and then coming back to capture the 3000 in 9:08.2--his best time ever.

PHS NINE WINS, LOSES In CVC Competition. The Princeton High School baseball team split two Colonial Valley Conference games last week, hanging on Monday to edge West Windsor, 8-7, and losing to Ewing, the league's front runner, 12-11, after failing to hold a 9-2 lead

Monday's win enabled PHS to even its league record at 3-3. Ewing is 6-1 (11-1 overall), while Lawrence and Notre Dame are tied for second with 4-3 marks and McCorristin is 3-2.

"The win (over West Windsor) was important for us," said O'Neill, "but we're still not in control of our future. We need someone to defeat Ewing."

Two more league games are ahead for the Little Tigers. They will play host to Hopewell Valley Thursday in a 3:45 contest--Hopewell is winless in league play--and will be at Notre Dame Monday.

As it has in most of its games, PHS got off to an early 4-0 lead against West Windsor But the Pirates came right back in the first with three and O'Neill admitted that "it was a close one at the end." Although PHS was outhit by the home team, 8-6, WW booted the game away by committing eight errors.

Andy Kulinsky, who was shaky at the start and at the end, blanked the Pirates in the middle four innings, and got the win, his third against one loss.

In the last inning, WW loaded the bases with none out. After Kulinsky had erased the next two batters on a ground ball and a comebacker, he was the victim of a "real tough play," in O'Neill's words.

Second baseman Josh Miller was screened by a runner on a ground ball and he had to throw quicker and harder to first than he wanted to, O'Neill said His throw was dropped, allowing two runs to come across and narrow the PHS lead to one. Kulinsky, however, fanned the next batter for the final out.

Two Hits, Four Runs. PHS scored four in the first on only two hits--Kevin Phox's leadoff single and a single by Danny Miller. They added another in the second on Phox's single, an error, a passed ball and another Pirate error.

The Blue and White then added single runs in the fourth, fifth and sixth--"which goes to show you how important those one runs are," said O'Neill. The actual winning run in the sixth began as a single by Phox up the middle which the center fielder let go between his legs.

"I could see it was hit harder than I thought," said O'Neill "I waved him to third and when I realized it would take a perfect throw to get him I sent him home. The throw was wide and pulled the Pirate catcher off the base, allowing Phox to score.

Phox was almost the entire offense for PHS. He batted 3-for-4, was on base four times and scored three runs. Miller added two hits and Frank Whittaker one. Brent Robinson, John Kandell and Judd Petrone, the heart of the batting order, did not have a single among them observed O'Neill.

"Terrible One to Lose." One of the low spots of the 1981 PHS season will surely be the 12-11 loss to Ewing.

"It was a terrible one to lose," agreed O'Neill. PHS rapped out 13 hits to eight for the Blue Devils, and, added O'Neill, "We're the only team that really should have beaten them."

What did PHS in? "Our pitchers walked nine and eight of those scored. That's what killed us," O'Neill moaned. "Our pitchers were not on top of their game."

After Ewing had taken a 2-1 lead in the first, PHS raked Ewing ace Stan Sandford for six runs in the second. The key hits were a double by Scott Porreca, singles by Clark Lippincott and Andy Kulinsky, a two-run single by Robinson and a triple by Kandell.

In the third, PHS went after reliefer Andy Paraseando, scoring two more runs, combining a walk, hit batter and Miller's two-run bloop single. After three, PHS led, 9-2.

Ewing's comeback began immediately. With two out in the third, starter Judd Petrone walked the next two and Shannon Patterson followed with a three-run homer to deep left.

In the fourth, Whittaker in relief of Petrone, got into trouble by yielding a leadoff single, which was followed by a wild pitch, a walk and a passed ball. Before it was over Ewing had tied the score at nine.

Ewing Regains Lead. Ewing took the lead again in the see-saw battle by scoring a run in the fifth on a wild pitch by Clark Lippincott, Princeton's third pitcher. In the sixth, run-scoring singles by Petrone and Porreca gave PHS the lead again, 11-10.

Once again, however, PHS couldn't hold it. A walk, a passed ball and Patterson's third hit, a single, tied the score, Patterson racing to third when the ball got through Phox's legs in center. Ewing coach Andy Greener then ordered a squeeze. John Wandling laid a perfect bunt down the first base line and Ewing had its dramatic win.

"It was a critical game for us," said O'Neill. "We made too many mistakes. We had them twice and let them get back in. If we had won we would have been on top of things.

"We've got to play with a little more confidence. The batting and fielding is okay, it's a question of how much the pitching can come around. We don't need strike out artists. We need control. Guys who can get the ball down low. Walks are killing us."

HUN NINE WINS TWO

Record Still Under .500. "A couple more weeks like this and I'll really be smiling," said Hun baseball coach Bill McQuade last week, after his team had won two games to raise its record to 3-5.

Hun scored two runs in the bottom of the last inning to come from behind and nip Delbarton, 5-4, on Thursday, and earlier it managed to survive seven errors and five walks in a 13-7 triumph over Bryn Athyn.

The Raiders have a chance to even their record this week when they play three games, starting with a 3:30 contest this Wednesday against Pennington School. The game will be played at Hun.

On Friday, Hun will be home for a 3:45 contest against Hopewell Valley High School and on the following day it will be in Hightstown for a game with Peddie.

After Delbarton had scored two in the sixth to take a 4-3 lead, Rich Landis led off the seventh with a single, his third hit in three at bats. The veteran Hun catcher also drove in three runs and scored twice to lead Hun offensively.

After one out, Matt Wheaton singled and Joe Royal was hit with a pitch. Then with two down, Chris Hunninghake singled home the tying and winning runs. "It was a nice win," commented McQuade. "The kids finally won a close one."

Petranto First Start. Russ Petranto made his first start on the mound for Hun and gave up just four hits in the six innings he worked before tiring. Nick Persichetti came on to get the win, his second against two losses.

Landis's two-run homer in the bottom of the first erased an early 1-0 Delbarton lead, and after The Green Wave had tied it in the third on a walk and two errors, Hun regained the lead again in the fifth. Martin Sumners, whom McQuade has decided to go with at second, doubled and Landis singled him home. In all, Hun banged out 11 hits.

Hun also connected for 11 hits against Bryn Athyn, but five walks allowed by pitcher Tim Landis and seven errors, made a game of it until the last inning, McQuade said, when Hun scored five runs. "Landis didn't do a bad job, but our defense really failed him," he said.

Sumners, batting ninth, lashed a double and triple, batting in two runs and scoring two, while Hunninghake doubled home another Hun run in the second. Chris Gross, whom McQuade has installed at first in his second major infield change, had two hits and is currently hitting the ball at better than a .400 clip.

PHS STICKMEN WIN

Budd, Gabrielsen Excel. Trailing 7-6 entering the final period, the Princeton High School lacrosse team erupted for six goals Saturday to surprise once-defeated Columbia, 12-9, on Princeton University's Finney Field.

"Columbia is a good team; we were just better," said PHS coach Bill Cirullo. "We overran them in the final period." PHS is now 4-2.

Ahead lie two contests in which the Little Tigers should be favored to win. They will be at Clifton Thursday and then play host to Hunterdon Central in a Saturday game at 2.

Both teams are not as strong this year as in the past Cirullo observed. "But both are giving teams problems." After having enjoyed a lot of success against Hunterdon in previous years, PHS has lost to the Flemington school the past two, including a 5-4 squeaker, and the Blue and White would like to end that streak.

Off its win over Columbia, Cirullo reported that the Little Tigers will probably be ranked as high as fnurth in the state.

The win was largely a Steve Budd and Scott Gabrielsen show, he said. In the final period. Gabrielsen netted two goals to give PHS the lead, Willie Whittaker added his only score, while Budd fired in the last two.

Gabrielsen ended with six for the game, Budd with five. Budd, the team captain, is also its high scorer with t7 goals and three assists; Gabrielsen is second with 13 and two assists.

"It was planned," said Cirullo, who commented before the game that he had decided to forego a balanced attack and try to get the ball to Budd and Christensen on attack the whole game.

"I felt the way to handle Columbia was to go with our power scorers and it worked out beautifully. We got the ball to them all the time.

"They were both very hot with the stick. They just played good offense."

Before its meeting with Princeton High, Columbia's only setback had been a 7-5 loss to Summit students would be involved, and remedial students not singled out "in negative ways."

Dr. Jennings raises this question — should money be spent in the earliest grades for prevention, then in the Middle School for "maintenance?"

"Should we get everybody out of remedial by the third grade!" he smiles. "A preposterous thought, but it helps you gain perspective."

Turning to the report of the Finance Committee, Dr. Jennings uses the metaphor of a long, inflated balloon.

"If you make it bigger at one end, you make it smaller at the other end, and you must assess what happens to the end that's being squeezed."

Members of the Finance Committee, in their report, suggested the establishment of guidelines, so that money can be distributed according to what a program needs.

Small Classes Essential. For example, small classes are absolutely essential in some programs; in others, class size doesn't matter so much. Money should be provided depending on what's appropriate for each program.

"It can be unequal," Dr. Jennings observes, "to distribute money equally."

The Personnel committee found a "significant increase" in minority employment among secretaries, custodians and the like, and also an increase in the minority employment of teachers.

But the committee issues a warning: watch out that percentages of minority employment do not represent stereotypes — "teachers are white, custodians are black."

"We began Affirmative Action programs earlier," Dr. Jennings says, "with budget cutbacks, you slide back because of the 'last hired, first fired' thing. but that hasn't happened to us. Some of our senior teachers are minority teachers."

So, with the idea of the success-based school, the system is trying to meet all needs and make every student a success, at least in something. But Dr. Jennings concludes on this note:

"I wouldn't dispute the fact that the periphery of our circle has a disproportionate number of black and minority kids."

And Charles Huchet, director of Student Services, underlines this question in his part of the Policy and Program report:

"The most potent question — why do so many minority students experience so much difficulty in our regular educational program?"

So the problem is under attack. But not yet solved.

—Katharine H. Bretnall

TWO ARE CHOSEN

In Youth Program. Trent Norris and Michelle Fishburne, representing the Princeton YMCA, are among 12 high school students at the N.J. Youth in Government Program who were chosen to attend the National YMCA conference on National Affairs.

They were selected on the basis of statesmanship, leadership, and thoroughness of performance. Some 250 students representing 41 states will meet for one week during July in Black Mountain, Tenn. to debate current events.

Miss Fishburne and Mr. Norris and ten other New Jerseyans were chosen from 300 students who participated in the Youth In Government Program, which was held for three days in early April in Trenton.

The program created a mock government, in which the students sat in the Trenton State House and Senate Chambers and acted as the New Jersey Legislature.

The students met in committees to discuss and rank the bills in order of importance. The top ranked bills were sent to the floor, where the author had three minutes to present his bill. If the bill passed in one chamber, it was sent to the other chamber to be voted on. It was then assessed by the Governor, a student chosen by a two-thirds vote at the beginning of the program.

Mr. Norris' bill concerned the New Jersey teacher tenure laws, while Miss Fishburne's was about prison reform. She was also nominated for the House Outstanding Statesman. Mr. Norris is president of the junior class at Princeton High School, and was chosen to be on the foreign policy committee for the Model United Nations, a related program of the Youth in Government Program. Both students hope to follow their interest in politics into a career.

FORUM SCHEDULED

With Gubernatorial Candidates. A Candidates' Forum featuring some of the 14 Democratic gubernatorial aspirants will be held at Whig Hall on the Princeton University campus on Monday at 8.

Co-sponsored by the Princeton Community Democratic Organization, the university students' Democratic organization and the Whig Cliosophic Society, the event will be moderated by Herbert Hobler, president of radio station WHWH. WHWH will air the discussion simultaneously.

Audience questions for the candidates will be coordinated by a panel including Tom Hartmann, Professor of Urban Affairs at Rutgers University's Livingston College and former PCDO president; Michael Kagay, lecturer at Princeton's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs; and a representative of the campus Democrats.

Ingrid Reed, PCDO president, reports that all 14 candidates for the gubernatorial nomination have been invited to appear. As of press time, those who had indicated they would attend include John J. Degnan, former New Jersey Attorney General; Frank J. Dodd, New Jersey State Senator and a 14-year veteran of the legislature; William J. Hamilton, a state senator, former Assembly Speaker and a 10-year veteran of the legislature; Ann Klein, former state Commissioner of Human Services; and Joseph P. Merlino, President of the State Senate since 1978 and a state legislator since 1967.

The public is invited to hear these and other candidates discuss the issues of the gubernatorial campaign.

20TH REUNION PLANNED

By PHS Class. The Princeton High School Class of 1961 will hold its 20th reunion on October 10 at the Princeton Elks Lodge (B.P.O.E. 2125), Blawenburg.

Those who have any information that will help the committee locate their classmates are asked to call any of the following committee members: Carole Mershon Esposito, 924-9581; Carol Cruser Offredo, 921-1783; Vera Everett Lanning, 466-2665; Janice Patterson Sivco, (201) 297-1737, or Frank Drift, (201) 874-3504.

FROM A DESIGN CENTER: Katie, Sarah and Michael O'Neill think a sale of stuff for kids is a great way to benefit Stuart School. Their mother, Ann Conley O'Neill, president of the Stuart Alumnae Association, and Rusti Murphy, Alumnae giving chairman, are preparing for the sale which will be held at Stuart Country Day School on May 1, 2 and 3.
